Angry Senator George Lashes at Truman and Hints Bolt

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS
Constitution Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—In a scathing speech on the senate floor, Sen. George Thursday openly rebuked President Truman for urging passage of the Fair Employment Practice Commission bill.

"If the President of the United States has nothing more important to submit to the American people in a time of industrial crisis, when the very life of this nation is at stake," he declared, "then I must say to the President that I will follow the best course that my judgment leads me to follow."

A few moments later in his speech, delivered in a fiery tone and with great vigor, the Georgia senator added:

"If this is all that Harry Truman has to offer, God help the Democratic party in 1946 and 1948."

Spirited debate on the controversial Fair Employment Practice Commission bill was touched off by the action of the senate in voting to take up the measure. The vote came after a surprise move to this end, offered by Sen. Chavez, Democrat, New Mexico.

Sen. Chavez was immediately denounced by some of his Democratic colleagues, who accused him of perpetrating "one of the biggest double-crosses seen in the senate in years." It was claimed that he had previously given assurance that the measure would not be brought up at this time.

In the discussion that followed Sen. George took the floor and delivered a vitriolic attack on the sponsors of the legislation, which would prohibit discrimination in employment against persons because of race, color or creed.

With the nation now plagued with industrial strife, the Georgia senator said this was no time to take up controversial legislation of the kind. Indirectly he laid the blame for the senate maneuver on President Truman, who in his recent fireside talk to the nation urged, among other things, that pressure be brought on Congress to pass the Fair Employment bill.

He charged that Truman's action on the measure had the effect of "notice to the American people that the American senate has no concept of the responsibility resting upon it."

Other southern senators echoed the Georgian's attack and it was apparent that a determined filibuster will be waged to defeat the measure. Some of them were so bitter over the developments that predictions were privately expressed that the fight that is threatened may disrupt the administration's entire legislative program.

Sen. George spoke with feeling and unusual force. The remarks he addressed to President Truman were interpreted as offering a threat of an open break between the President and southern leaders of his party in congress.

The text of the George speech follows in full:

"Mr. President: The action taken by the senate in taking up Senate Bill 101, the so-called Fair Practice Bill, a bill to control and regulate by senate will in the field of human relationships, at a time of crisis such as our country faces today, is notice to the American people that the American senate has no concept of the responsibility resting upon it.

"Not only that, Mr. President, when the senate met on Monday the distinguished majority leader (Mr. Barkley) asked that nothing be done until the President's message was submitted. Many of us were laboring under the definite impression, induced by the action taken at that time, that no controversial matter of any kind would be brought up at this time.

"I do not criticize senators who are pledged to support the FEPC bill for voting as they did. I criticize the Democratic party for bringing it up under explicit conditions that at least no controversial matter would be presented to the senate at this time, until the President's message had come before this body.

"Mr. President, my party can take whatever course it will, but there are men on this side who are free men. They will not follow the party's will. I wish to serve that notice now. I serve it in all sincerity. If the President of the United States has nothing more important to submit to the American people in a time of industrial crisis, when the very life of this nation is at stake, then I must say to the President of the United States that I will follow the best course that my judgment leads me to follow.

"Senators can do as they please. It was well known that many of us had been here since the 31st of December, cutting short the vacations which we needed badly to work on assigned committee duties and responsibilities. Every senator knew that no highly controversial matter was to be called up today, until the President had submitted his message. If this is all that Harry Truman has to offer, God help the Democratic party in 1946 and 1948.

"At a time when the very life of the nation is at stake, we are called upon to consider a bill to compel people in the field of human relationships to do what their judgment directs them not to do. We are called upon to go Nazi. We are called upon to go totalitarian. I have no quarrel with any senator who has promised to do it. I know that many senators have promised, but I have not promised to do it, and I will not do it.

"Mr. President, I wished to make the record plain that at a time when some of us, at least, are trying to comply with the orders of the senate itself, a most highly controversial matter is thrown into the senate."

100 Per Cent Stock Margin Decreed As Curb on Inflationary Trading

HOME, SWEET HOME!

When Mr. and Mrs. Clark W. Mahan, of Flint, Mich., saw this towering, idle chimney an idea was born. The idea was a fine home, built of the 42,000 bricks in the smokestack, and then the idea was put into action. They had the chimney felled, then they went at once into preparations for their brand-new home.

Solons Act To House Students

University system officials are hopeful that rapidly-expanding student bodies in all units of the system, especially Georgia Tech and the University of Georgia, can be provided with adequate housing accommodations, following passage yesterday by the senate of a bill to return to the State Board of Regents all title to the system's property.

The measure was passed by a vote of 32 to 3, and transmitted immediately to the house of representatives.

Sen. George Sabados, of Albany, opposed the bill in the floor debate. Senate Pres. Frank Gross and Sen. G. Everett Millican, of Atlanta, and Sen. Homer Causey, of Alma, spoke for it.

Authored by Sen. Millican, the legislation would repeal an act of the 1935 legislature passed in the administration of former Gov. Talmadge, which took away the board of regents' title to university property and made it the property of the state. It would restore such titles to the regents, permitting them to incur indebtedness for the purpose of improving the property on a revenue-producing basis.

At the time of the passage of the 1935 act, the board of regents was negotiating with the Public Works Agency for a federal loan to undertake a $7,000,000 dormitory building project. The negotiations were cut short when the act was signed into law.

L. R. Siebert, executive secretary to the board of regents, disclosed in connection with the pending legislation, that the enrollment for the winter quarter at the University of Georgia is 3,396, or just 12 short of the record prewar high enrollment of 4,408 at that institution.

As veterans continue to return, the university expects to enroll more and more students, Siebert pointed out.

"Unless we have more dormitory space, we cannot accommodate these students," he declared. At present, the system has no new dormitories under construction because the state cannot afford to appropriate the required money, he said.

Enactment of the Millican repeal legislation, Siebert said, will "enable us to remove the acute housing situation existing everywhere in the system—it's bound to grow worse all the time."

In addition to Tech and the University at Athens, housing shortages are especially serious at the North Georgia College in Dahlonega, the Fort Valley State College and at Fort Valley and the West Georgia College in Carrollton, Siebert said.

HOUSING SHORTAGE, HUMPH!—Yes, blame that look on the face of Frances Chalker on the housing shortage. Frances, clerk at the hardware counter in a downtown store, hasn't sold a "for rent" sign in three months! Business is bad with the other rent signs, too, she said.

9 Airline Pilots Held For Theft

AUGUSTA, Ga., Jan. 17.—(UP) Nine civilian aviators were arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation here Thursday night and charged with theft of $15,000 worth of U. S. government property.

All of those arrested were commercial airlines fliers sent here to obtain surplus equipment purchased by their concerns. Most of the nine arrested were American Airlines personnel, special FBI Investigator E. K. Brown, of Savannah, said.

They had gone to Bush Field to prepare purchased equipment for movement to commercial bases, Brown said.

Equipment stolen from Bush Field, Brown said, consisted of gyroscopes, automatic pilots, automatic transmitters and other miscellaneous equipment.

Those arrested were four pilots, two copilots and three mechanics. They were:

Pilots Capt. William V. Brown, John L. Thomason, Charles A. Ryan and George H. Christiansen; Copilots John E. Espy and William Ernest Reetz, and Mechanics Sidney C. Sharples, Klifton L. Jacobsen and Richard A. Carroll.

All were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner W. C. Fleming and released on $1,000 bond each pending another hearing Friday.

Earlier, it had been reported that six pilots were being held at Bush Field charged with the theft of nearly $2,000,000 worth of parts from the 2,000-odd surplus war planes at the field.

French Rebuff Franco

PARIS, Jan. 17.—(UP)—The constituent assembly voted unanimously Thursday for a motion favoring a breach of relations with Generalissimo Franco's government.

Federal Reserve Says 'Cash Only'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(UP)—The Federal Reserve Board, acting to curb stock market speculation and stem inflationary pressures, Thursday boosted margin requirements on future stock market purchases to 100 per cent, effective Jan. 21.

This means that cash must be paid for all future stock purchases. Previously all stocks selling for $10 or less were put on a cash basis, with those above $10 requiring a 75 per cent margin. The margins were boosted from 50 to 75 per cent last July 4.

Board Chairman Marriner S. Eccles said the action was designed to prevent the further flow of borrowed money into stock market quotations and dampen speculative activity "at this time of strong inflationary pressures and until such time as inflationary dangers are passed."

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Emil Schram, president of the New York Stock Exchange, commenting on the Federal Reserve Board action in eliminating all trading on margin in securities, declared Thursday night that "we are for anything that will curtail unwise speculation in the market." He added, however, underscoring his words, that "the market has been practically on a cash basis for some time."

From a standpoint of curbing speculation in listed stocks, he said, the board now has no further recourse "except possibly to order that all existing margin accounts be put on a cash basis."

He renewed his warning that the main source of the inflation danger is "the vast accumulation of currency and bank deposits at the disposal of the public as a result of the fact that far too much of the cost of the war was financed through the creation of commercial bank credit and not enough was financed out of taxes and the savings of the public."

"Price controls, rationing, allocations, etc., are vitally necessary for holding the line until the danger is past," he said, "but they are not designed to prevent the excessive money supply from flowing into speculation in capital assets, such as homes, farms, business properties and securities."

To this end, he renewed his appeal for legislation to increase "substantially" the rate of the capital gains tax.

The board's new margin regulations will not affect transactions made prior to the effective date.

The requirements, according to the board, relate only to future purchases and sales of registered securities. The board pointed out the regulations do not apply to the use of credit "for any purpose except to finance transactions in securities."

The rules incorporating both regulations in July of 1945 will now require that whenever securities held as collateral are sold, the proceeds must be used to reduce or retire the customer's indebtedness.

However, the board said, the regulations do not require reduction or liquidation of existing accounts or loans.

RUSSIAN JUSTICE IS RATHER HARSH

By JUDY BARDEN.

BERLIN, Jan. 17.—(NANA.)—Talking with an American military police official Wednesday night, I was told that it is rarely British or Americans who start anything, but the Russians, who have a complete disregard for human life. He told me of an incident where two Russian "G. Ivans," brought in by American MP's to a Russian police station for a minor offense, were not questioned as to their behavior; the Americans' word being taken. Two Russian MP's broke the insteps of the offenders with rifle butts and carted them away. When the American MP's shocked at such brutal treatment timidly suggested that this procedure was somewhat harsh, the Russians answered, "what does it matter? They will be shot in the morning anyway."

Steel Strike Hinges On Reply to Truman

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Truman has submitted an undisclosed proposal for settlement of the threatened steel strike and CIO President Philip Murray, in a surprise move, has summoned the CIO United Auto Workers' six-man strategy committee to Washington.

Mr. Truman offered his proposed solution of the steel dispute yesterday to Murray and Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the U. S. Steel Corp., after collapse of direct negotiations between the disputants at the White House.

One report was that the President had named a somewhat higher figure than the company offer of 15 cents an hour and less than the union demand of 19½. Asked for comment on a suggestion that it was 18½ cents, an official in close touch with the negotiations said that was "not far off." He would not be more definite.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, seeking to settle the meat strike, conferred jointly and separately with the disputants yesterday and asked them to return for further meetings this morning.

The conferences, which federal officials had hoped earlier might produce an agreement in the two-day-old strike, developed instead into "exploratory sessions."

Both AFL and CIO representatives reported afterward that nothing new had developed and that Schwellenbach appeared to be seeking information. They said the secretary had not asked a return to work while government fact finding proceeds.

In the steel situation, White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said both Fairless and Murray had taken the President's plan under advisement and would report their answers to him by noon today "after discussing it with their respective organizations."

Murray's summons to the strategy committee arrived at Detroit shortly after announcement from Washington that negotiations had failed to produce a wage settlement.

It was not known, however, whether the summons to those directing the General Motors strike—now in its ninth week—was connected with whatever decision the CIO makes regarding the Presi-

25-Degree Low Is Expected Today

The weatherman's forecast for Atlanta today brings good news for lovers of mild, sunny weather. He promises that the snow and winter temperatures that have prevailed the last two days will be replaced by fair skies and warmer temperatures today.

Although the mercury is expected to drop to a low of 25 degrees during early morning hours, a recording of 50 degrees will probably be reached by afternoon, according to the report.

Yesterday's minimum and maximum readings at the Atlanta Weather Bureau were 28 and 44 degrees.

Harris Tells of Move on Road Board To Balk Arnall in Second Race Try

By M. L. ST. JOHN.

As the "behind scene" maneuvering continued on the proposal to lift the ban on Gov. Arnall's candidacy for another term, House Speaker Roy Harris said that opponents of the amendment will try to have the legislature take over the State Highway Department immediately "to prevent any trading in roads to affect the voting on the amendment.

Harris is one of the chief opponents of the Arnall ban-lifting amendment, and has predicted that it will not pass the house.

These reports followed a measure introduced in the house yesterday by Rep. James Dykes, of Bleckley, to ban any state employe from trying to influence a legislator. Dykes' amendment would make it a misdemeanor and would have the employe suspended or fired.

Shortly after the house adjourned for the day, the state of the republic committee met and recommended that the Dykes legislation be adopted. It will be reported back to the house tomorrow, and will come up for debate whenever the rules committee decides that it should.

The second term amendment faces an idle weekend in committee, with Chairman J. W. Culpepper, of Fayette, announcing that no meeting will be held before next week. He said he anticipated the absence of many members if a meeting was attempted today, since many solons go home early for the weekend.

On the surface yesterday, the house enjoyed its fourth straight day of harmony. There has been no debate on any bill.

Efforts were made to bring an anti-closed shop amendment and a state liquor store bill onto the floor. Attempting to speed committee action on the proposal to outlaw closed shops, Rep. Herschel Lovett, of Laurens, had the amendment moved from constitution committee No. 1, headed by Rep. Claude Pittman, of Bartow, to judiciary committee No. 1, headed by Rep. Lewis, of Hancock. Pittman, whose committee sent a similar bill to the floor last year, reportedly planned a public hearing for next Monday while Lovett wanted an earlier report. Lewis planned to caucus his committee late yesterday to determine when it would discuss the proposal.

Reps. Clarence Thompson, Meriwether, and Buford Mitchell, of Monroe, tried in vain to bring the state liquor store bill to the floor. Mitchell attempted to amend the house rules committee recommendations so as to make this bill top yesterday's calendar, but was voted down.

The house passed a measure to raise the base pay of state troopers $25 monthly, and increase the number of state patrolmen from 200 to 300. Reps. Wayne Hinson, of Ware; Sills, of Candler, spoke for the bill, with Sills terming the patrol the "first line of defense on state highways and second line of defense in counties."

The house passed a bill provid-

Court Overrules State In Upholding Parolee

By CLARK HOWELL JR.,
Constitution Staff Writer.

REIDSVILLE, Ga., Jan. 17.—Judge Mel Price, of the Atlantic judicial circuit, Thursday nullified the order of the State Pardon and Parole Board revoking the parole of Oren Wilkes, 28, of Toombs county. Wilkes was convicted of manslaughter Oct. 3, 1943, and was sentenced to from three to ten years at the state prison at Tattnall.

Wilkes was granted a parole May 21, 1945, and was free until December, 1945, when an order was issued by the state board for his re-arrest and the revocation of his parole.

The board charged Wilkes with having violated the terms of his parole by frequenting places dispensing or selling intoxicants, resorting to use of intoxicants, and threatening bodily harm to persons.

After hearing testimony and the arguments of counsel, Judge Price ruled that the revocation in this instance was illegal, and that the board had no authority to revoke a parole if the parolee lived up to the stipulations in the order giving him freedom.

Attorneys for the state expressed intention of appealing the case to the state supreme court.

Wilkes sat, seemingly undisturbed, in the courtroom, surrounded by his family and an array of attorneys, comprised of former Gov. Eugene Talmadge, T. Ross Sharpe, attorney of Lyons, Ga.; P. M. Anderson, of Claxton, Ga., and Garland H. Williams, representative from Toombs county.

His father, R. Q. Wilkes, former clerk of the superior court of Toombs county, sat next to his

Dixie Attack On Cotton Ceiling Brings Conciliatory Bowles Reply

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—Sharp criticism from southern congressional delegations of an OPA move toward establishing a ceiling on raw cotton apparently is lessening the possibility of such action.

Sen. Maybank, Democrat, South Carolina, Thursday read into the record a letter he received from Price Administrator Bowles in which Bowles pointed out that the notice of intention to fix ceiling prices does not indicate a final decision to do so.

The notice given by OPA, he wrote, "does not necessarily indicate a final decision by this office to fix the maximum price level as indicated in the notice, or at any other figure."

He explained that the price control law stipulates that to fix a ceiling price on an agricultural commodity, notice of the proposed maximum must be given at least 15 days before the normal planting season. For cotton, that date is Feb. 1.

"I think you will agree," Bowles wrote, "that, as price administrator, I would be remiss in my duties if I foreclosed myself from any right to take whatever action seemed necessary with respect to such an agricultural commodity. It was for this reason, and this reason only, that I approved the issuance of the recent notice covering raw cotton during the crop year 1946.

"Without such notice, it would have been legally impossible, regardless of the circumstances, for us to establish any such maximum prices later in the year."

However, Bowles wrote the senator he sincerely hoped such a program would be unnecessary. He added:

"If it becomes evident that the price of cotton is becoming stabilized because of improvement in supply or for other reasons, of course it will not be necessary for the proposed ceiling prices to be put into effect."

Georgia's congressional delegation is among those which have been asked to protest the proposed cotton ceiling prices. The Georgia general assembly, now in session in Atlanta, early this week adopted a resolution memorializing the state's senators and representatives to voice their opposition to the move.

Japs Outsmarted Navy, Adm. Kimmel Testifies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(UP)—R. Adm. Husband E. Kimmel told the Pearl Harbor inquiry Thursday that Japan outsmarted our "best brains" in developing the shallow-water torpedoes that all but destroyed the U. S. Pacific Fleet on Dec. 7, 1941.

A witness for the third successive day, he said that the bulk of damage to his anchored fleet would not have occurred had not the Japs perfected the torpedo. Torpedoes hitherto had not been launched successfully in less than 60 feet of water. But the Japanese placed wooden fins on old-type projectiles so that they operated successfully and lethally in the 35 to 40-foot deep narrow channel entrance to Pearl Harbor.

The man who was in command of the fleet when the Japanese struck, also testified that he was "by no means certain" on the day of the attack that Japan would attack the United States. He thought, he said, that they had too much "common sense" to attack Pearl Harbor or any other U. S. territory.

Chief Committee Counsel Seth W. Richardson led Kimmel into a discussion of the new Jap "secret weapon" by referring to the admiral's testimony of Wednesday. Kimmel had said then that he did not believe torpedoes would operate in the shallow waters. And he had added that this was the reason for the heavy damage to the fleet.

"Now," Richardson asked, "all the Japanese did was to take some 1931 white-head torpedoes and put some fins on them so they could use them in shallow water, is that right?"

Kimmel said yes, and added:

"It was a device which all the best brains of our Navy Department had been unable to discover. Like everything else, when you see the solution, it is simple. It was a device which the Japanese discovered and our people had been unable to discover." But Kimmel later told the committee he wanted to correct his testimony regarding the torpedoes. He said he believed he might have "left the wrong impression" concerning their adaptation for shallow water use.

During the luncheon recess, he added, V. Adm. William W. Smith, who had been his chief of staff, told him the torpedoes "practically had to be rebuilt."

"In justice to our own Navy and the Bureau of Ordnance," Kimmel said, "I think I ought to make a statement.

"Modernizing these old torpedoes to make them suitable for dropping from airplanes was not merely a question of putting some vanes on them. That's the point I want to make."

The Pearl Harbor commander, relieved of his command and reduced in rank as a result of the attack, told Rep. Jere Cooper, Democrat, Tennessee, vice chairman of the inquiry, that he always had believed that it would be "national suicide" for Japan to attack this nation.

EXPECTED BLOW ELSEWHERE

Cooper asked him if he believed that war with Japan was "highly probable" and where he expected it would break out.

"I expected that any attack that eventuated after Nov. 27 would be confined to the Far East," he said. "I was not at all sure that Japan was going to attack the United States when it did. The information I had indicated to me and my associates that Japan's next move would be into Thailand.

"I was by no means certain that Japan was going to attack the United States. It would be national suicide for them to do so. . . . . Even immediately after Pearl Harbor I had no doubts that Japan was going to be wiped off the map.

"I didn't know that Japan had what has been described as a 'mad dog' attitude and was going to strike out regardless of who got hurt and what damage was done. . . . I have never understood why they were so lacking in common sense. . . . I thought there would be some forces in Japan who would see that situation."

Cooper kept hammering away to bring out that Kimmel anticipated war somewhere in the Pacific late in 1941.

"With the conclusion that war with Japan was highly probable, it had to start somewhere, didn't it?" he asked.

"That's correct," Kimmel replied. "But 'highly probable' doesn't mean 'inevitable.' "

"Were you one of those in the Navy Department who thought that war with Japan was probable?"

PEARL ATTACK "REMOTE"

"I never reached the point where I thought it was inevitable," the admiral replied. He added that while for months during 1941 he considered war with Japan "highly probable," he never rated an attack on Pearl Harbor itself as more than a "remote possibility."

Kimmel launched into renewed criticism of the Navy Department for what he said was its failure to give him full information on the worsening U. S.-Japanese diplomatic picture. If he had had the information that was available at Washington, he reiterated, "there would have been no trouble about what I did out there at Pearl Harbor."

He said the Navy's "war warning" of Nov. 27, 1941, "indicated an attack not 'in any direction,' but in three or four specific directions." He said that he never before had seen the phrase "war warning" used in a Navy message.

"Did it occur to you to ask the chief of naval operations about this extraordinary term?" counsel asked.

"That's just the trouble," Kimmel replied, "I didn't consider it an extraordinary term."

He denied Richardson's implication that, after receipts of this "war warning" message, he had subordinated security to further fleet training.

"I took the steps which I thought advisable and which I thought the situation demanded," he said.

"But it put you on a training basis rather than an alert?"

"No. The fleet was on the alert at the time."

Kimmel also testified that:

1. He did not recall having been warned by Washington that Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays were historically the times when the Axis powers struck. Pearl Harbor was hit on a Sunday, but Kimmel said he believed even now that was just a "coincidence."

2. He was concerned but not "extremely disturbed," to learn the week before Pearl Harbor that a portion of the Jap fleet had been "lost" to naval intelligence.

3. He did not detail aerial patrols on either Dec. 6 or 7, 1941, to make reconnaissance in the north—the direction from which the Japs struck.

4. He couldn't afford to sacrifice destroyers to patrol work and was unable to use submarines in quantity, since most of his underwater craft were on the west coast for installation of water-distilling equipment.

5. Although some of "the best minds of the Navy" were at Pearl Harbor when the attack came, none anticipated it.

1,500 Food, Drink Businesses Facing Rigid Sanitary Tests

Atlanta's 1,500 food and drink dispensing establishments are undergoing the most rigid sanitation inspection in history, and many of them have begun cleaning up their premises and conforming to new city ordinances based on recommendations of the United States Public Health Service.

Stafford W. Graydon, public health engineer of the city health department, said yesterday that the 10 inspectors are leaving inspection sheets at approximately 75 places a day and that the entire number will have been surveyed within the next 30 days.

When an inspector leaves the inspection slip, it is supposed to be posted on the wall of the restaurant so that patrons can see its rating. If defects are found, they are noted on the inspection sheet and the owner is told to take the proper steps to eliminate the objections.

Although the health department will not clamp down immediately under the new grading system by which all restaurants must qualify with either an "A" or "B" rating if they remain in business, Graydon said the department will not permit food and drink sellers to disregard accepted sanitary requirements in the interim, He said some operators have notified the department of their intention to close because they cannot conform to the new standards in the buildings in which they are now located.

After Oct. 1, all such places must obtain an "A" or "B" rating to stay in business. The first inspection will allow an operator to get a "C" grading, but he must qualify as an "A" or "B" operator within 30 days.

"We are going to try to be fair about this matter and to give every consideration when we get cooperation from operators," Graydon said. "We know that materials and labor are still problems, but we propose to see that the health of the patrons is protected, and those oprators who refuse to conform to the standards set by the ordinance will cease to operate in Atlanta."

Vets, Builders Get Break On CPA's Housing Program

Georgia veterans and state builders planning to construct homes for use of ex-service men are taking advantage of the Civilian Production Administration's two-day-old "reconversion housing program."

The CPA priority plan, designed to give veterans preference in housing, has already brought a stream of applications into regional offices of the Federal Housing Authority here, State Director R. E. Matheson reported yesterday.

State Housing Expediter Lon Sullivan early this week gave Georgia builders a "head start" on obtaining building materials priorities by mailing application forms via special delivery to mayors of 30 cities in the state where the housing shortage is critical.

$80 TOP RENT

Under the "Reconversion Housing Program," effective Jan. 15, dwellings costing $10,000 or less will be offered first to veterans, with top rent to be about $80 per month. Matheson stressed that this is not an FHA program, and it is not necessary to apply for an FHA loan to build. His office is merely the authorized agent for granting priorities, and private builders will construct the units.

To obtain a priority, officials stated, prospective builders must submit a rough floor plan and the front elevation of the lot with their application. Priorities, or "HH Ratings," will be awarded either to individual veterans who wish to build for themselves, or to builders desiring to erect one or more buildings for sale or rent to veterans.

Successful applicants for building materials priorities must show that: they own the lot on which houses are to be constructed; they have adequate finances to build; they can start construction within 90 days.

VETS GET FIRST OFFER

Priority builders, in addition, must display a sign during the period of construction announcing that the building is being erected under the CPA program, thereby enabling home-seeking veterans to apply for leases or ownership. Following completion of dwellings, the builders must advertise for 30 days, offering homes first to veterans.

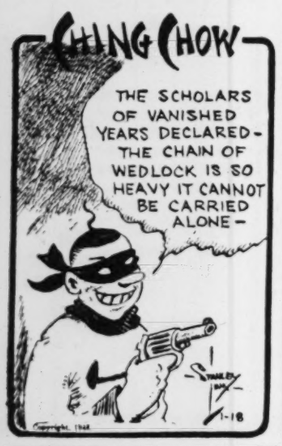
Priorities may also be used to obtain materials to complete construction already in process if it meets the above requirements, Matheson pointed out.

John Peckham, regional compliance manager for the CPA regional office here, said that CPA investigators are on the lookout for building material dealers or builders who fail to observe "HH" priorities.

Under the Second War Powers Act, CPA controls the "distribution and flow" of building materials and investigators are authorized to audit dealers' books and check the production of lumber mills.

Peckham said regional investigators, by means of direct complaints and auditing, will protect the new housing rights of veterans. As of Jan. 15, "HH" priority building material orders will take precedence over all others, and homes completed under the program are earmarked for veterans.

Atlanta officials estimated that about 50 per cent of homes constructed in the near future will be built under the CPA priorities plan.



Coast Guard Vets Interview Enlisted

Newton P. Caddell and Earl H. McDonald, veterans of all theaters of war, are now stationed at the Coast Guard recruiting office, Room 320 New Post Office building, to interview young men who are interested in a career in the regular Coast Guard.

The Coast Guard now offers young men between the ages of 17 and 25 a special two-year enlistment in the regular service. Advantages include free correspondence courses, steady promotion, free medical attention and retirement after 20 years of service.

Applicants must have a grammar school education, have the consent of parent or guardian, 20-30 vision and a minimum of 20 serviceable teeth.

80,000 Allies Die In One Prison Camp

WARSAW, Jan. 17.—(AP)—More than 80,000 American, Greek, British, Russian, Polish, French and New Zealand prisoners of war were killed or died of starvation in a Nazi concentration camp at Lambinowice near Niemodlin in lower Silesia, an officical commission reported.

Authorities said they had found a cemetery stretching many miles and deep ditches with many layers of bodies.

The Polish press agency said the bodies of 40,000 had been unearthed in one mass grave.

Brazil Press Pledged Free Hand by Dutra

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 17.—(AP)—President-elect Eurico Gaspar Dutra said in an interview Thursday that the Brazilian press would be completely free under his administration, with a full right to criticize the government.

"A free press will be a welcome factor to help orientate the administration," Gen. Caspar Dutra said.

Busby Berkeley Again In Divorce Court

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—(AP)—For the fifth time, Dance Director Busby Berkeley, 50, is a divorce court defendant.

He was sued by Marjorie Pemberton, 22, ex-model, alleging cruelty. They were married last May, separating six months later. His previous wives, all actresses, were Ester Muir, Merna Kennedy, Claire James and Myra Steffens.

REQUEST FOR JOB HAS LONG TRIP

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 17. (AP)—An unemployed laborer applied directly to President Truman for a job.

The application was referred in turn, from the White House to the Department of Labor, to the western regional U. S. Employment Service, to the Utah USES and finally to the Salt Lake City USES office three blocks from the job seeker's home.

Abit Nix Elected Shrine Potentate

Abit Nix, of Athens, has been elected potentate of Yaarab Temple of the Atlanta Shrine organizations in its annual election of officers for divan posts.

Other officers elected are: Albert Happold, chief rabban; William C. Harris, assistant rabban; Hugh Howell, oriental guide; and Oby T. Brewer, high priest and prophet. William T. Jordan and Frank C. Cundell were re-elected as treasurer and recorder.

French Ask Death Sentences To 'Re-Educate' Germans

NUERNBERG, Germany, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A wartime French resistance chieftain Thursday charged 22 top Nazis with torture, lootings and persecution and demanded the "supreme penalty" for them as an essential first step in re-educating Germany.

It was the first time that the prosecution had called directly for death sentences for the Nazis on trial before the international military tribunal. The demand was voiced by a former minister of justice of France, Francois de Menthon, 46-year-old philosophy professor at Nancy, who began France's case against the Nazis.

The courtroom was packed and tense. The defendants plainly felt the full impact of the death penalty demand. With long, sad faces, they sat limply, listening in silence and looking straight at the prosecutor. Reichsmarshal Goering, suffering a head cold, appeared in court bundled up in a polka-dot scarf.

De Menthon asserted that the Germans must be shown that organized brutality as embodied in national socialism and its doctrines as the "crime of crimes" leading only to "material and moral perdition."

DE MENTHON'S CHARGE

The wounded war veteran said that the German people for many years have been "intoxicated by Naziism" and that their re-education is indispensable.

He declared the "initial condemnation of Nazi Germany by your high tribunal" would be the first lesson for the Germans.

He said that "some objection" might arise at the punishment of hundreds of thousands of men who belonged to such major organizations as the SS, the SD, the SA and the Gestapo, but declared that "the systematic war of criminality could not have been carried out by Nazi Germany without these organizations and without the men who composed them."

"The major Nazi culprits had their orders carried out in divers Nazi organizations which we ask you to declare criminal in order that each of their members may be apprehended and punished," the prosecutor said.

DETAILED ACCUSATIONS

The French chief prosecutor concluded his opening statement in time for Edgar Faure, of his staff, to begin presentation of details on charges of economic pillage and drafts of forced labor.

Accusing the Nazi heirarchy of the deliberate breach of the peace in violation of international treaties, De Menthan declared that this sprang from a "crime against the spirit" which unless punished would reappear another day under other leaders.

The prosecutor said that National Socialism was not a phenomenon of the current era but had its roots deep in German history and philosophy. He warned that new Pan-Germanists might soon say to the Germans:

Hitler and his companions were wrong because they finally failed but we must begin again some day on other foundations the extraordinary adventure of Germanism."

32 ACTS ENUMERATED

De Menthon cited the international agreement of 1919 incorporated into the Treaty of Versailles and enumerated 32 war acts specifically forbidden as war crimes. He said many of these were knowingly violated by the Nazis in the course of this war.

He listed specific charges which would be pressed against each defendant, repeatedly citing Fritz Sauckel, in charge of foreign labor during the Nazi regime, as chiefly responsible for drafting forced labor; Wilhelm Frick, former minister of the interior, as director of the policy of the occupied territories; Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel and Col. Gen. Alfred Jodl as responsible military chiefs.

De Menthon declared that the occupation atrocities as exemplified in the wholesale massacre of the inhabitants of the southern French village of Oradour-sur Glane, concentration camp tortures, and the premeditated and drawn-out murders of French, Dutch, Danish and Belgian patriots must be punished.

Fox Film Files Suit On Income Tax Law

Improper construction of the Georgia income statute by State Revenue Commissioner M. E. Thompson is charged in a suit filed in Fulton superior court by the Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corporation.

The corporation charges that the commissioner is erroneously attempting to collect back taxes amounting to about $15,000, allegedly due the state. In the suit filed yesterday, the corporation states that the Georgia income tax law does not levy taxes on income earned outside the state, that the Georgia activities of the corporation are concerned only with distribution of films produced elsewhere, and that the commissioner's estimate of taxes due is not based on a proper construction of the law.

JUST TRAIN FARE

Blue Baby Doomed Unless She Gets to Baltimore

Suppose your 3-year-old daughter were a "blue baby," whose life could only be saved by an operation at Johns Hopkins. And suppose you had no money, no money at all, and were unable to work because you had to stay with your baby.

Mrs. Mildred Brock is in that position.

Her doctor has told her that her child will die unless the operation can be performed. Mrs. Brock believes that Johns Hopkins will do the operation through its free clinic, but she needs money for train fare to Baltimore and to live while she's staying there.

Mrs. Brock is living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Cook, on Route 9, Atlanta. Her father, a veteran of World War I, is an elevator operator in the William Oliver building.

It was her sister, Mrs. Irene Davis, who told The Constitution about 3-year-old Myrna, who is suffering from malformation of the heart, and is what is commonly known as a "blue baby."

Myrna's just at the age when normal babies are toddling around and getting into mischief. However, Myrna is forced to stay completely still all the time to avert another convulsion which may cost her her life.

"We just don't know what to do," said Mrs. Davis. "We don't have any money at all, and we can't just watch the baby die. There must be some way to get her to Baltimore."

Man Held on Complaints Of Unescorted Women

Tom Hawkins, 30, of a Highland avenue address, will be arraigned in police court on charges of disorderly conduct and public indecency.

Hawkins was taken into custody last night by City Detectives R. E. Little and R. E. Finley, after they had received complaints from women who were walking alone on Rosedale road, Rosedale drive, Highland terrace, Amsterdam avenue and Lanier Boulevard.

Divorce, Child Labor Bills Go to Senate

While the legislation to activate a state merit system is awaiting further consideration by its committee on the state of the republic, the senate today will take up a house-amended-and-approved child labor law and the measure revising Georgia divorce laws.

Indications among upper house leaders are that the senators will concur in the house's amendments to the child labor measure.

Among these are amendments prescribing conditions under which youths may work in wholesale and retail stores and drugstores, as news peddlers and in fruit packing plants.

DIVORCE TIME SHORTENED

Major change sought in the divorce law measure would allow superior court judges to issue both the first and final decree in cases within a period of 60 to 90 days, where a jury is not requested. Under present law, applicants for divorce must obtain concurrent verdicts from two separate juries before completion of the action and in some counties, where juries are convened less regularly than in others, this requires as long as 18 months. Sen. Spence Grayson, of Savannah, is author of the bill.

After less than 30 minutes' debate on the state merit system bill, the senators sent it back to the state of the republic committee for further study, upon motion of Sen. W. L. Norton, of Gainesville.

This apparently was not a delaying tactic to keep the measure from reaching the floor for final action. Sen. Norton offered his amendment after a number of amendments were proposed and more appeared to be forthcoming. He asked that the committee incorporate some of the amendments considered necessary to establish a good merit system before the measure is debated on the floor of the senate.

TO STUDY MERIT BILL

The committee will meet sometime during the morning session to study the bill, members of the group doubt that it can be readied for today's legislative calendar.

The motion to recommit the bill was passed by a vote of 32 to 3. Sen. George Sabados, of Albany, was among those opposing the motion. He said he was afraid the recommitment might mean the death of the measure and the people in his district wanted it passed.

EDUCATORS' QUALIFICATIONS

The committee on education has slated a hearing for 9:30 a. m. today on the house-approved bill to raise the qualifications for county superintendents and to increase salaries of these officers according to their qualifications.

This bill has the support of the Georgia Education Association and other educational groups in the state. It was passed last year by the lower house but ran into trouble in the senate education committee, which recommended it unfavorably on the floor. Upon motion of Sen. Homer Causey, the bill was tabled at that time.

The senate yesterday adopted a motion by Sen. G. Everett Millican, of Atlanta, that the bill be taken off the table and re-referred to the education group.

Also expected to reach the senate today is a report from a house-senate conference committee appointed to iron out differences in the bill to refund to farmers 5 cents of the 6-cents-per-gallon state tax on gasoline used solely for agricultural purposes. The bill has been passed by both houses with certain discrepancies.

It is understood that the report will make March 1, 1946, effective date of the act, whereas the house set it for the day the act became law and the senate would have had it May 1, 1946. The senate also will agree that gasoline bought in 25-gallon quantities is eligible for the refund, it is understood. The senate set a 50-gallon minimum.

The senate passed a bill liberalizing the state income tax law with regard to veterans, by permitting ex-servicemen to deduct all federal income taxes, paid or unpaid, from state returns, provided the federal tax is paid within a period of six months after discharge.

Another bill passed by the upper house would clarify provisions in the act creating the State Board of Veterans Service and to authorizing the board to decide all matters relating to policy and to require the director of the department of veterans service to perform duties required of him by board instruction. Other clarifications of the act are contained in the senate-approved measure, author of which is Sen. Guy Stone, of the 15th district.

MORE TAX EASEMENT

The upper house passed other bills to abate all state income taxes upon death of a member of the armed forces in the United States or any other of the United Nations, to increase the salaries of law clerks in the Georgia court of appeals, and to exempt from taxation in Georgia all property, real and personal, owned by any recognized veterans' organization.

Senate President Gross introduced a bill to amend the act setting up a retirement system for superior court judges by allowing a judge to retire on a pension after 20 years' consecutive service irrespective of age. The present law provides that he must be 70 years old. Another bill was introduced to require all counties and municipalities of 1,000 or more population to have an annual audit of their books by a registered accountant.

ELBERTON, Ga., Jan. 17.—Elbert county exceeded its quota of "E" bonds in the Victory bond drive by 137 per cent and on its over-all quota by 201.1 per cent. Overall quota was $232,000 and "E" bond quota was $105,000. A drive is on now for clothing for overseas destitute, under the management of Rev. H. M. Baumgartner Jr.

MORE SENATORS?

House Okays Bills to Create Two New Georgia Districts

Georgia may have two senators more in the next legislative session than in this one.

The house of representatives yesterday passed, and sent to the senate, measures to create two new districts—the 53d and 54th.

The 53rd district was proposed in a bill by Rep. Connell, of Lowndes. It would be composed of Cook, Brooks and Berrien counties and would call for this reapportionment of the following districts:

Sixth: Lanier, Lowndes and Echols.

Seventh: Mitchell, Thomas and Grady.

Eighth: Miller, Decatur and Seminole.

Reps. Smith, of Emanuel, and Guyton, of Effingham, offered an amendment to this bill which would create the 54th district, composed of Toombs, Evans and Tattnall counties. The amendment was adopted.

First: Bryan and Chatham.

Fifteenth: Treutlen, Montgomery and Wheeler.

Sixteenth: Emanuel, Johnson and Laurens.

Forty-ninth: Candler, Effingham and Bulloch.

Should the senate approve the bill, the new districts will choose their senators in the election this year, and the new members will meet with the general assembly in 1947.

LEGISLATURE

ing that housing authorities could clear slums without building new homes on the same location. The authority could hold the cleared land a possible industrial development, and construct new housing projects on more suitable locations.

Resolutions were passed to create a state park in tribute to veterans (no appropriation was attached), and to invite Highway Board Member Knox Gholdston to outline his highway reorganization plan to the general assembly. Creation of a constitutional board of health will be favored in a report to the house today by constitution amendment committee No. 1.

The veterans' committee favored a resolution to petition congress to liberalize, clarify and simplify loans to veterans. Chairman Olin Price, of Clarke, said the present procedure is so complicated that most veterans cannot get loans. The resolution was introduced by Rep. Dave Arnold, of Spalding, a banker.

The ways and means committee favors exempting from business license fees ex-servicemen who received 100% disability injuries in peacetime, the same exemption now granted those injured in action.

The house took steps toward home rule when it passed a general bill, sponsored by the DeKalb delegation, enlarging the items for which counties may levy taxes. This is an enabling act to provisions of the new constitution. It permits counties to establish reserve funds, to finance libraries and airports, in addition to their other powers.

The house voted to pledge the W. & A. rentals as collateral for state ports development bonds, in order to reduce the interest rate on loan from 5 per cent to 2¼ per cent. Rep. Charles Gowen, of Glynn, predicted the state would save $2,500,000 in interest payments.

Gowen anticipated that the federal government would grant public works aid sufficient to finance half the cost of improving the docks of Savannah and Brunswick.

Rep. McNall, of Chatham, said the profits shown by private docks indicate that the state docks will show a profit, rather than operate at a loss.

Speaker Harris said existing docks will dwindle in importance, because they are controlled by railroads, unless the state does something to develop the port facilities. He said development of ports will be a "sledgehammer to equalize freight rates."

The house approved a bill permitting an increase in the assistant state treasurer's salary, within the treasurer's budget.

A measure permitting cities to annex adjoining territories upon written approval of all property owners in the territory to be annexed was introduced by Mrs. John Guerry, of Macon county.

Rep. Walter Harrison, of Jenkins, presented an enabling act to the new constitution permitting cities and counties to enter the power and gas business. The bill would permit cities and counties to issue self-liquidating certificates to finance gas or electric generating and distributing systems, providing the issuance of the certificates is approved by a majority of citizens voting in an election for that purpose.

A resolution asked permission for the state to trade certain of its land in Dade county to that county for 121½ acres adjacent to the state park. This would permit the state to enlarge its park.

Advocates of state liquor stores made unsuccessful efforts to bring their bill to the house floor. Rep. Clarence Thompson, of Meriwether, rose to a point of personal privilege to protest against the bill being smothered in committee. Then Rep. Buford Mitchell, of Monroe county, tried unsuccessfully to amend the rules committee's report so as to put the bill at the top of yesterday's calendar.

Rep. Nicholson, of Oconee, introduced a bill to provide $10 fee for court clerks for recording adoption of children.

After a hearing attended by a large number of druggists, the house health committee killed a measure that would have lowered the educational requirements of a person seeking to take a pharmaceutical examination. The bill, introduced by Rep. Ben Willoughby, of Clinch, would permit persons with two years' college credit to take the state examination. The present requirement is four years' college credit. Druggists attending the hearing opposed the bill.

The house yesterday passed a bill to increase the fees paid to clerks of superior courts.

The house also passed a bill to prohibit any licensed optometrist from practicing with an unlicensed optometrist, and a bill decreasing the fee for large trucks-for-hire from $1,500 to $600.

MEMPHIS, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Shelby County Asst. Atty. Gen. Greenfield Polk was examining witnesses Thursday in a larceny case involving theft of a woman's pocketbook.

"What did the purse contain?" he asked the owner.

The woman replied, "Two hundred and twenty-one dollars and a pound and a half of pork chops."

Fire Damages Mercer University Building

MACON, Ga., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Fire of undetermined cause resulted in damage estimated at $25,000 to the Willets biology building of Mercer University last night. Two students saw the flames as they crossed the campus and gave an alarm.

Senate Okays 49 Appointees

Most of the appointees have been in state service for some time, but the law requires that the general assembly give its official approval.

Atlantan to Address Madison Credit Group

A VOICE IS HEARD—"Honey Girl," 21-year-old Boston terrier, lay near death in Detroit when her sailor-master, Signal 2/c Harry E. Bennett, denied an emergency leave, called from Bremerton, Wash. Now the aged canine has a new grip on life, after listening to her master's voice.

'No Begging,' Court Warns Panhandlers

Warnings to the city's panhandlers and bums that further begging must end have been issued by Recorder's Court Judge A. W. Callaway.

"This court has adopted a policy of inflicting the stiffest fines for first offenders," the judge said, "and additional offenses are cause for binding the accused over to Fulton county criminal court."

With thousands of servicemen and discharged veterans passing through Atlanta every day, the number of panhandlers have increased substantially during the past few months, and they now constitute such a menace as to have drawn the attention of both city and county police officials.

"Word has evidently passed around among the city's bums that veterans and soldiers are an "easy touch," Judge Callaway stated, "but begging for dimes and quarters on the streets is giving a bad reputation to a city which has prided itself on its hospitality to visiting soldiers and sailors."

"Several years ago, during depression days," the judge said, "the courts had to take stern measures to abolish these practices, and there is far less reason for panhandling today than there was then."

Sells Circus Property

MACON, Ga., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Extensive circus properties of the Clyde Beatty Circus, in winter quarters here, were sold yesterday to Floyd King and H. J. Rumbaugh, owners of King Brothers Circus, Owensboro, Ky. Beatty established quarters here last October, planning to convert to a railroad show. He said he found it impossible to obtain railroad cars and decided to dispose of his motorized equipment.

PAROLEE

son, cradling his two grandchildren, Elaine, 7, and Loretta, 8, in his arms. Wilkes' blonde wife sat behind him with a definite look of anxiety on her face during the hearing.

This was the first test of the legality of a parole issued and revoked by the state board since its creation in 1943.

Representing the state in the case were Dan Dukes, assistant to the attorney general; R. A. McGraw, assistant to the attorney general, and R. N. Odum, special assistant attorney.

Speaking for the state, Dukes declared: "When a prisoner is released on parole he is not free until the expiration of the maximum sentence or until he is pardoned. While on parole, the parolee has no rights except those guaranteed by law, and operates in a restricted field under the jurisdiction of the parole board."

FINDING DISPUTED

Wilkes was brought before the parole board last December for hearing on his case and it was alleged by the board that he was guilty of having entered a place near Lyons, Ga., which sold intoxicants and of having engaged in a fight while he was there.

The defense said that at the hearing in December there had been no evidence introduced except one letter signed by a Lyons resident. The letter later was alleged to have been forged by the signer's sister-in-law.

Sharpe said that the judgment was based on fraudulent testimony, and that the parole commission had private reports which they did not introduce at the hearing, and therefore, in revoking the parole had acted in caprice.

Judge Price ruled that the state had to limit its decision to that evidence consisting of the one letter.

Called to the witness stand for cross-examination, Edward B. Everett, chairman of the parole board, calmly answering questions fired at him by the defense attorneys, said:

"In delivering the decision on the parole of Wilkes, we considered not only the letter but any and everything that had any bearing on the case."

Asked to identify the signatures of the alleged forged letter and the affidavit from the same person, he said, "To the best of my knowledge the signatures are not the same, but I could not swear they are not."

DISCLAIM VIOLATION

The defense held that Wilkes had not violated any part of his parole and there was absolutely no legal evidence to revoke the parole.

Rising in defense of the son of one of his "staunch friends," former Gov. Talmadge, who up to this time had remained silent, strode to the center of the room and spoke without the fire for which he is so well known.

He told the story of a misguided boy who had returned on parole to his wife and two children after serving a prison term, how he had gone into a night place to get a meal while his wife was sick in the hospital and had attempted to be a peacemaker in a fight which took place while he was there.

"There is no evidence in the case at all to justify the action of the pardoning board. Erroneously, perniciously or foolishly, they have made a case with absolutely no evidence to sustain it," he declared.

Talmadge also defined the word "frequent," opening the dictionary and reading aloud to the court.

"The rules of the parole state that he shall not frequent any place selling intoxicants," Talmadge said. "The word 'frequent' would not apply in this case because the defendant went to the place only one time," he continued.

"I hope that our present system is improving," he said. "It might pay them to investigate into our prisons and see what goes on in them."

In handing down the decision, Judge Price said, "I consider the action on the board illegal" and declared that "the prisoner should be released."

PIE CUSTOMERS GET 5c REFUND

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Jan. 17. (AP)—Everybody who bought a slice of pie at a local grill has a nickel rebate due but the government will not attempt to reimburse the patrons.

Some 4,200 customers were overcharged for pie by the grill which upped the price from 15 to 20 cents. When the OPA called attention to the violation of its regulations, the grill paid over $210, the amount overcharged during a seven-month period.

Other violations charged by the local OPA included one in which a discharged veteran received a refund of $523. representing the amount overcharged for a used automobile.

On a Basis of Merit—or Patronage?

For the second consecutive day yesterday, the state senate postponed action on a bill to establish a state merit—or civil service—system as envisioned in the new constitution for which the people of Georgia voted overwhelmingly last summer.

Yesterday's further delay on the matter came when Sen. Everett Millican endeavored to strengthen the weak-as-water bill which had been voted out of committee.

Sen. Millican thought, as does every intelligent person who will give the subject a moment's consideration, that far too many departments and bureaus were being exempted from the merit system's jurisdiction.

Political pap-suckers are fighting tooth and nail to prevent passage of any measure which will deprive them of their sinecures. Realizing that the public is demanding adoption of a merit system of some nature, they are seeking a compromise whereunder only a few additional departments would be covered. This would leave many hundreds of state jobs to be filled with sycophantic hangers-on and political small-fry, none of whom is capable of passing such job-tests as a merit system would require.

Georgia has had its fill of incompetents in office. Georgia too well remembers the boasts of old-line political factions that they were going to run special trains to bring their relatives and campaign supporters into Atlanta for state jobs.

Georgia knows of the inefficiency and dishonesty which comes from hiring state employes on the basis of politics rather than ability. And Georgia knows that competency is just as essential in state departments with less than 25 employes as it is in those with more.

Georgians are demanding an effective merit system covering all but elective and policy-making positions. Georgians are tired of being given the run-around on this issue and it should be provided without further efforts at delay and emasculation.

Atlanta's 'Woman of the Year'

We hasten to congratulate Atlanta's "Woman of the Year," and the committee which chose her. Mrs. Mamie K. Taylor long has been one of the most unselfish, constant and able feminine citizens of Atlanta, giving generously of her talent in every civic enterprise.

This is the third year there has been a selection of "The Woman of the Year." It is a civic idea, being sponsored each year by one of Atlanta's business firms. By now it has become firmly established as one of the really good things to look forward to each January—public recognition of the civic work done by Atlanta women. One is chosen from each of the seven fields of civic work and from that number one is elected as "the" woman of the year.

The selection is done in a careful, intelligent manner. It presents those who really have worked. The choice often is close and, of course, many excellent workers miss by narrow margins. But there is always next year and the incentive to work the harder for a greater and better Atlanta.

A Look at the Books?

Acceptance by the United Automobile Workers' Union of the President's fact-finding decision is at least a temporary withdrawing from the demand of "let us see the books."

That was an excellent and strong public relations slogan. It was effective in getting substantial public opinion behind it. The UAW has been out in front in its ability to present its case.

Nevertheless, despite the apparent reasonableness of the argument, the more one looked at it the less reasonable it seemed. Financial statements of profits, assets and production are made to the stockholders. The Securities Exchange Commission has full information as to profits, assets, liabilities and sales of all large corporations. "The books," so called, were always available. If by "the books" the union meant the plans made by General Motors or other companies which might enable them better to meet competitive production, then that properly is the property of management and should not be revealed.

There is no logic to support such a demand.

Wrong Party

Editor: Constitution: It must, of course, be understood that the demonstration in Manila which was held by some 20,000 men must have been made up of a great many normal Americans who have thought long and hard about the protest they were staging. There seemed to be no evidence of isolationism, no desire to just lay down their responsibilities and come home, no flagrant blaming of "brass hats" per se.

For five years, American citizens have been in the Army and have had a pretty fine opportunity to make a judgment of that Army. They fully understand that our Army represents America and that it can be compared to no other army in making an evaluation any more than we compare other nations to America. Our ideal in both evaluations is that of hope for perfection of our "way of life."

If the men trusted the War Department to do a job of estimating its needs correctly and using its men judiciously, they would have some patience. But experience has shown that the Army would rather have valets, and jeep drivers for its brass, large organizations where small would do. Has The Constitution ever questioned the wisdom of keeping men away from their homes to staff Lawson General Hospital when there is undeniably the talent in Atlanta to do the job?

It is a disgrace that the riots should have happened. It is disgraceful that the American people have allowed the civilian secretary of war to allow a system to exist which has so misused men called upon to serve their country. It is a reflection on the American people and their Army. It is a clear picture of dissatisfaction by men who can do nothing to remedy the situation.

The American people have a moral obligation to return to civilian life every man whose services are not needed. There are over 3,000,000 men still in service. Do you believe that the Army is short of manpower?

The Army is a winning team. It won the war. It did the job. But has anyone questioned it otherwise? The Manila riots give rise to a need to question.

Your editorial was surely an indictment of the wrong party. The demonstration in Manila was surely orderly, sane and direct. The rest is up to you, the newspapers and your readers, the people. (Soldier's name withheld).

State Control

Editor Constitution: I read in the press that the state is expecting an increase in revenue from the liquor traffic. I don't see why some people should be raising such a howl about the state raising the price of liquor, especially the ones who don't drink. It is the people that drink that pay the tax. As long as the people want to drink, let them pay whatever tax is levied.

I think it better for the state to control the liquor traffic rather than the blind tigers, making and selling the spurious stuff they make, which will run a man crazy who drinks it, and would make a buck rabbit stand on his hind legs and spit in a bulldog's face.

Hospitals

Editor Constitution: Your editorial of the 11th on "Domestic Atrocities" is timely in more ways than one, and especially can it be applied to the conditions at the State Hospital, Milledgeville. A friend of mine has a relative there who came from a refined family. This patient, like a good many there, has intervals of being quite sane and she has reported to him more than once that she and a lot of patients were in a building that didn't even have screens in the windows to keep out the flies and mosquitoes. That it was impossible for a patient to improve there as all sorts of cases were crowded together so that one could hardly think, much less read anything in an endeavor to at least get solace from good literature. Mental patients are always excitable and that in place of improving, a lot of them are much worse now than when first committed. That hardly any of the patients have any place to keep a few little things of their own that they can have access to. This friend of mine is a semi-invalid himself and hearing about these deplorable conditions at Milledgeville has made him worse.

Your reference to the "humanities" leads me to write this on behalf of my friend. Gov. Arnall can find all the money he wants for road building, laws regarding freight rates and salaries for politicians, yet he seemingly ignores the "humanities" that the state is neglecting. We need more editors like you in the state of Georgia. You are a friend in need and I hope your work regarding Milledgeville will produce results.

Fearful

Editor Constitution: The articles of F. O. Turner, Will S. Davis and O. B. Brown are all to the point and show the growing impatience of the public and its demand that the President and congress do something to protect their rights for it would seem that no one has any rights in our great nation today but the leaders of organized labor and management.

Our long suffering people have a perfect right to demand of our President and our congress the protection that our constitution and Bill of Rights guarantees every citizen, in spite of the one-sided Wagoner labor act and the Norris-LaGuardia law.

Above everything today we need honor, integrity and courage in our leaders to maintain the high place in making and preserving the peace that our fine boys have helped to win in this war.

Why not drop all the crazy panaceas and crack-pot ideas: "ability to pay;" "voice in management;" "sharing profits," etc., and simply have organized labor accept responsibility when signing a contract? A federal charter and government inspection such as management has, will accomplish a miracle in our troubled nation.

Our politicians and officials, when they come in contact with organized labor, remind me of a tiny spaniel owned by my daughter, who turns over on his back, waving his four paws in the air in abject fear whenever larger dogs approach.

Something 'Pretty' To Read on Georgia

"I'm willing to read about Tobacco Road and I know it does exist—I am ready to believe that much of what that great genius, William Faulkner, wrote of the south is true—I am not one of those who gets angry when the evils of our section are pictured in newspaper or book . . . but doesn't anyone ever write 'pretty' about Georgia?" . . . from a letter to The Constitution.

Indeed so, madam. To my way of thinking there has never been anything prettier written than a section from "John Brown's Body" (Benet). It is an old favorite of mine and I am indeed grateful to you for this opportunity to quote it again. It is a story of a young southerner out in the fields with his dog in the year before the Civil War. He hears in the skies the brazen-hoofed stallions of war going bridleless across the heavens, and about him is his native state of which the poet says:

"Riding back through the Georgia Fall
To the white-pillared porch of Wingate Hall.
Fall of the possum, fall of the coon,
And the lop-eared hound-dog baying the moon.
Fall that is neither bitter nor swift
But a brown girl bearing an idle gift,
A brown-seed kernel that splits apart
And shows the summer yet in its heart,
A smokiness so vague in the air
You feel it rather than see it there,
A brief, white rime on the red-clay road
And slow mules creaking a lazy load
Through endless acres of afternoon,
A pine-cone fire and a banjo tune,
And a julep mixed with a silver spoon. . . .

"This was his Georgia, this his share
Of pine and river and sleepy air,
Of summer thunder and winter rain
That spills bright tears on the window-pane
With the slight, fierce passion of young men's grief,
Of the mocking bird and the mulberry leaf.
For, wherever the winds of Georgia run,
It smells of peaches long in the sun,
And the white wolf-winter, hungry and frore,
Can prowl the north by a frozen door,
But here we have fed him on bacon fat
And he sleeps by the stove like a hungry cat. . . .

"Oh, Georgia, Georgia, the careless yield!
The watermelons ripe in the field!
The mist in the bottoms that tastes of fever
And the yellow river rolling forever. . . ."

That's some of it. A great many poets, madam, have taken the southern ingredients of smoky air, of pine-cone fires, of honeysuckle, mulberry leaves, peaches, pine and yellow rivers. But none of them has come up with anything like this organ music of Benet's. Then you might try Sidney Lanier. It isn't good to forget him. One of these days a researcher will go through Frank Stanton's works and pick out the real poetry of it. But that is for the future.

Tobacco Road An odd fact about Tobacco Road was that it did exist in fact. Erskine Caldwell did an excellent job in writing it. The trouble was there was no indication it was a facet of rural slums and as a result it got a sort of general application.

Caldwell's daddy, one of the grandest of men, a Presbyterian minister, took me out there one day. I was prepared for it, but still it was pretty bad. There were things and conditions on Tobacco Road worse than any described in the book.

When the road show "Tobacco Road" came to Augusta, Ga., Dr. Caldwell took some of the characters to see the show and they had a magnificent evening recognizing themselves. Jeter Lester, the real Jeter, had died the year before and the visitors mourned the fact no little, saying, "Wouldn't old Jeter have liked that? It was just like him."

One of the encouraging features of life in the south today is that we are subjecting ourselves to critical self-examination. For too many years we thought of ourselves as "pretty" and we resented any other idea that didn't soothe us. By all means let's enjoy the "pretty," but the ugliness of our social lacks must be attacked.

DOROTHY THOMPSON

Diplomatic Effects of GI Gripes

The right to gripe is the privilege of Americans, and to gripe en masse in public demonstrations an ancient habit. The American people are hardly panic-stricken about the vociferous GI demonstrations occurring wherever there are occupation armies, nor would they support punishment of soldiers exercising the right of "free speech" and "free assembly." The Army chieftains, in immediately deciding against punishment, are doubtless acting wisely.

Nevertheless, the demonstrations are extremely serious, not only for what they reveal to us, but for what they suggest to others. This is a world in which great powers are out for themselves, and in which spheres of power are being extended and consolidated. Since all power is relative, every extension of the power of one is at the cost of the power position of others. It is a world in which smaller states are falling into the power complexes of the larger voluntarily or by coercion.

Observing the behavior of our armies, from Manila to Frankfort to Paris, no power will be discouraged against greater boldness, and the weaker states will begin to count the U. S. as completely out of the picture.

There is, for instance, Soviet pressure on Turkey. Russia might restrain herself there and elsewhere, if unilateral action seemed in any way dangerous, but when large bodies of American soldiers are jeering publicly and unreproved at their officers, Russia, and the rest of the world, will consider us a negligible element.

Defeatist Diplomacy Our diplomacy, which has staged little but a series of defeats, is still trying to secure some measure of independence for the eastern European states, exert influence in Latin America, frame a policy toward Spain, and persuade Great Britain to modify certain imperial policies. But neither Communists, Fascists nor imperialists need be responsive to American suggestions or pressures, under present conditions.

The disintegration of western individualistic societies fits into Fascist and Soviet theory and policy. Communist calculations have always been that war in "capitalist-imperialist" nations hastens the disintegration of their social systems, and international comintern agents are standing ready to fan any sparks of discontent that show themselves. The American Communist line that "the Yanks aren't coming," which continued until the attack on the Soviet Union, is now "the Yanks aren't staying."

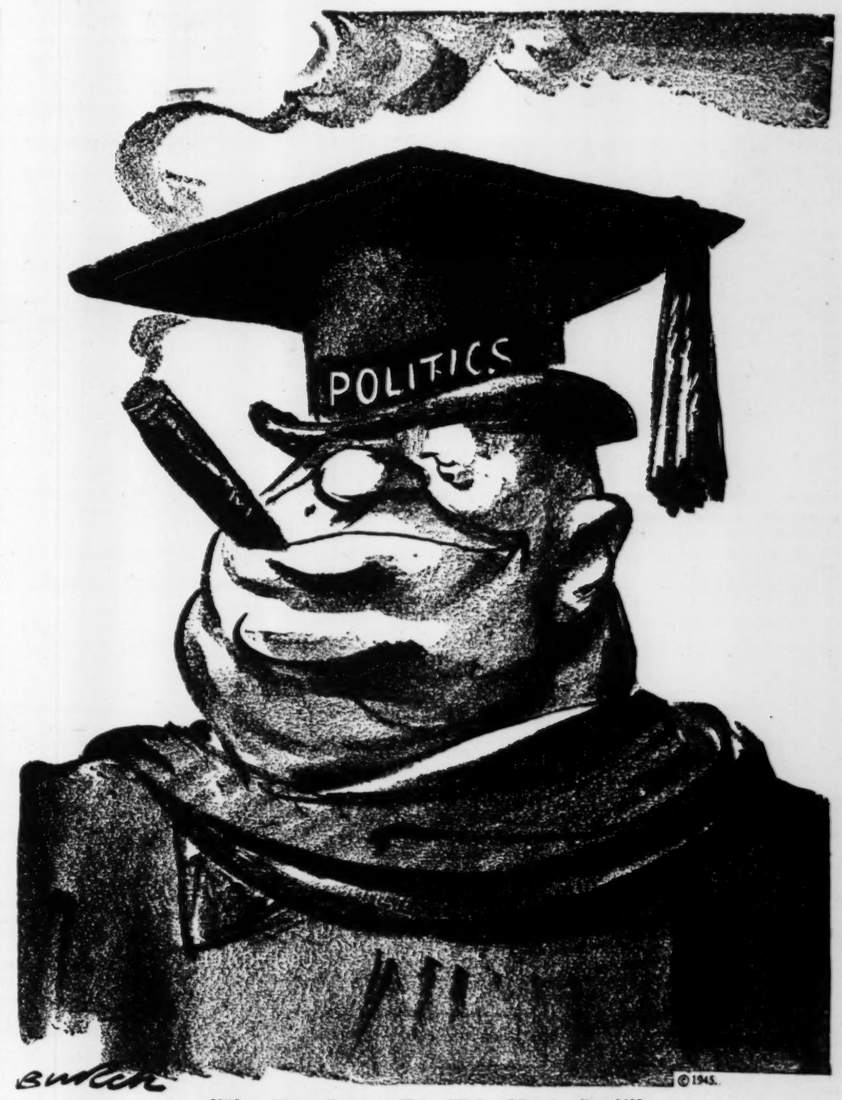
The conception that the Soviets are opposed to American isolationism—now that participation is no longer a necessity of Soviet defense—is most naive. There is nothing they wish more warmly than our withdrawal from the Far East and from Europe. The idea that they insisted on the U. S. A. as the seat of UNO in order that American interest in world organization should be sustained can can only be entertained by those who have not been closely watching Soviet and comintern moves. The Soviets want UNO as far removed from Eurasia as possible, for in Eurasia they are steadily building their own United Nations system, which, as Molotov candidly said, is the only form of multi-national state or federation which will work.

Meanwhile, since UNO has no power whatsoever over Soviet policy, either to influence or restrain it—let it babble as it will—in Hyde Park or anywhere else sufficiently remote from the places where real actions are occurring. So let the United States as host keep open house to all who come and go with diplomatic passports.

Class Army The rumbling among GIs is the inevitable result of creating a class Army, in which thousands of young men were commissioned out of universities over experienced veterans; in which political education has been all but nonexistent; in which the peace program is, from an American view, unintelligible as either realism or idealism; in which cushy jobs in UNRRA, OWI, WPB and many other agencies won all the privileges of an officer with none of the dangers; in which discipline and decorum once the war was over were hardly better maintained by officers than by men, as the grab for villas, girls, champagne, cameras, sifted downward into open black market operations, all within the concept that conquerors who owe nothing to any enemy people, owe nothing either to their own honor.

Add to these confusions and inasterities the immediate cause of the demonstrations: This country has undertaken commitments, which will require for many years the maintenance of larger armed forces than any previous Army of peacetimes, and although this has been known for years, and although the war has been over for months, no one has yet any notion of how the government intends to raise these forces. The GI fears, therefore, that he is stuck for years, if not for life.

Universal military training, it is safe to predict, has been shelved. Certainly GI reactions abroad will not aid it now. And if the government does not quickly propose the recruitment of occupation forces from volunteers, under a program offering equality of opportunity to men of all social origins, as well as education, good pay, and regular furloughs, even that will be difficult. For when the uniform of a country ceases to be a high distinction, few wish to wear it.



"I'm Too Smart For This Merit Stuff"

ROBERT QUILLEN

Defeat Won't Change Them

Ben was a young newspaper reporter with a touch of genius and the rare quality called charm. But at 22 he was a drunkard and a gambler, rotten through and through.

His word was worthless; he made debts without any thought of paying them; he forged his father's name to checks and notes.

When the girl he loved announced her engagement to a better man, he waylaid and killed her on a Sunday morning as she walked home from church. The family's money could not save him that time, for he was sane and cold sober and numbers of people had heard him say: "If I can't have her, nobody else will."

I thought at the time that he was crazy, and I still think he was abnormal; but he was the logical product of his background and training.

An only son of rich and aristocratic parents, he had been coddled and spoiled from infancy. He never had been denied anything he desired. He was pathologically selfish. He believed himself naturally superior to ordinary people. His lies and forgeries and trickeries gave him no sense of guilt, for he was above the law. Anything he did was justified by his superiority. Therefore, if a girl dared to reject him, he had a right to kill her, for no common man had a right to enjoy what he could not possess.

If that indicates insanity, the German nation is insane. For that is the kind of "reasoning" which prompted and justified the atrocities of the Nazis—and virtually all Germans were Nazis.

They looted all Europe of its art treasures, and then, when defeat became certain, made plans to destroy all they had stolen.

What could prompt such madness? What did they hope to gain? If the plot had succeeded, they would have robbed themselves and all mankind of a priceless, irreplaceable cultural heritage, and made the world forever poorer.

It was spite work—the hellish, savage, irrational spite of pathologically selfish people who will rule or ruin.

And if any man thinks these people have been cured or changed by defeat, he is too simple to be trusted in a place of authority.

THE GUBERNATORIAL ISSUE

(DeKalb New Era)

It is of no consequence whether one is for another term for Governor Arnall or opposed to it in considering the proposal to amend the Constitution of the State so as allow him to stand for re-election. The issue involved far transcends personalities. Personally we think Governor Arnall has done much for the State and if he served another term as Governor he would perhaps do more.

But the question must be approached realistically and the answer must be in terms of the State and what is good for it, not personalities, perjudices, likes or dislikes.

We sincerely hope that the Legislature will consider very seriously the real issues in this question and will weigh carefully the actual and potential results of a frequent change in our Constitution. It is a matter of vital importance and one that should never be decided on personalities.

Does That Include Non-Residential License?

In York, Pa., a gent has been fined $500 for "illegally shooting" his wife.

Next time, one supposes, he'll take care to do the job in the manner prescribed by law.

They were out hunting together, he told the court, and he mistook her for a groundhog. But that was no defense . . . groundhogs were out of season, too.

Besides, he should have known better than to think her a groundhog, what with it still three weeks until Feb. 2.

Wife-shooting, intended or otherwise, is considered at least a misdemeanor in most circles and the sovereign state of Pennsylvania has acted wisely in levying such a stiff fine for the offense.

As a matter of fact, what with inflation having beset everything, including the divorce market, it might be necessary for Pennsylvania to hike the penalty on wife-shooting even further lest, in the very near future, York and Philadelphia and Pittsburgh challenge Reno as the nation's No. 1 separation center.

GLADSTONE WILLIAMS

Hitler, Napoleon Of Different Patterns

WASHINGTON.—Some of our contemporary amateur historians are seeking to draw a comparison between the lives of Adolf Hitler and Napoleon Bonaparte.

The thing that has inspired the latest series of such commentaries is an interesting article in the current issue of the Infantry Journal by Col. Truman Smith, United States Army, retired, who was our military attache in Berlin from 1935 to 1939.

From stories told by high German officers since the surrender, Col. Smith reconstructs the factors leading to the abdication of the German general staff in favor of Hitler, who, at a crucial stage of the war, took personal command of the army.

The writer recounts that prior to the Polish campaign the Fuehrer, who never rose beyond the rank of corporal in the First World War, was looked on as a military idiot by the German generals, although he was considered a political genius.

It was the success attending his action in overriding the general staff in Poland and France that gave rise to the abdication. The generals had planned an orthodox development of Polish forces west of Warsaw, to be followed by two or three months of fighting. Hitler insisted on a bolder thrust, and Poland fell in less than three weeks.

In like manner the generals had mapped out a more conservative course for the attack on France through the Low Countries. Again they were forced to adopt more daring tactics. The breakthrough at Sedan resulted and the collapse of France followed almost immediately.

These spectacular successes caused the generals to change their mind about Hitler. After that they were willing to concede that he was a military as well as a political genius.

Then came the fateful decision to invade Russia. The generals were against it, but they were persuaded to go along with Hitler's intuition after what had happened in Poland and France.

Same Mistake The chief parallel between the German dictator and Napoleon lies in the fact that they both made the same fateful mistake—the decision to conquer Russia. Without that, they both might have reigned supreme in Europe for some years. Their forces had defeated everything before them.

Hitler, like Napoleon, had no justification for his attack on Russia. Less than two years before, in fact, he had signed a long-term nonaggression pact with the Soviets. Pride and ambition and the lust for power prompted both men to strike at Moscow.

Napoleon actually reached Moscow. History would probably have been changed if the city had not gone up in flames a few days later, forcing the long retreat through the bitter Russian winter. It cost him a half million men, the cream of his army.

Hitler never quite reached the Russian capital His army got only to the outskirts of Moscow. And then fate intervened. On Dec. 2, 1941, the thermometer there dropped to 18 degrees below zero. The Germans, hoping to reach the city before the cold came and to quarter their troops there for the winter, found themselves unprepared. They had not brought along anti-freeze chemicals and winter oils for the machines, nor had heavy clothes been provided for their men.

Col. Smith marks that day down as the day German really lost the war in Russia.

Unlike But the comparison between the fantastic careers of Napoleon and Hitler ends with these details. Their lives were unlike in any other major respect, save only that they were both bloodthirsty dictators bent on world power.

It does seem like a historical sacrilege, however, to place Hitler in the same category with Bonaparte. The latter has been recognized by historians of all countries as one of the most remarkable men of all times, perhaps the greatest military genius of them all. Moreover, he gave to France a new code and new laws which continue to have a beneficial effect a century and a half after his time. France saw its greatest period of glory under his regime.

Hitler at best gave Germany only a fleeting period of glory. He left nothing enduring as a monument to his memory. He goes down as a colossal failure among the would-be world dictators, his country a shambles of destruction and his people facing ruin.

M. L. ST. JOHN

Cook County To Get Senatorship Soon

If a new senatorial district is created of Cook, Brooks and Berrien counties—and indications are it will be—Rep. J. A. Kennon, former senator, will be the outstanding candidate for the senatorship. He is the author of the bill, and he lists Cook county as the first to provide the new senator. It isn't lack of modesty on his part that causes this listing, but it is a sense of justice. Brooks and Berrien counties both have senators in the present session. Sen. Wallace Harrell is from Brooks county—which today is in another senatorial district. Sen. E. H. Brown represents the present sixth district, which is composed of the following five counties: Berrien, Lanier, Echols, Lowndes and Cook. Reason for trimming the size of the district is to give a county an opportunity to furnish a senator more than once every 10 years.

Big Chatham county would furnish a senator oftener under another bill creating a new senatorial district. Chathom now sends a senator here every six years, as the first district is comprised of three counties—Chatham, Bryan and Effingham. A bill now before the house would move Effingham into another district, and leave Chatham and Bryan as a two-county district.

The new constitution permits creation of two new districts. So far the Cook and Chatham bills are the only two proposals. Both are in the house for action first. Fulton is the only one-county district, which means that Floor Leader Everett Millican has been the only senator eligible for re-election. With the creation of the post of litutenant governor, however, Senate President Frank Gross, of Toccoa, is seeking what is tantamount to re-election.

Races for the 1947 senate already are getting under way. Rumors have it that a hot battle looms in Emmanuel county, which is split by two political factions. Former Senate President Jim Spivey may try a comeback. Rep. George Smith may make the race and there is talk that Rep. V. H. Hooks might be a candidate.

Unlimited Tenure While the house gets ready to discuss a ban on a governor's tenure of office, the Muscogee delegation has decided not to try to pass a local bill limiting the terms of office of Columbus school, water, and hospital boards. The group was asked to introduce a bill requiring these officials to retire at the end of their first term. A year would have to elapse before they would be eligible for re-election. Rep. Billy Young was against it, saying the city needs its experienced leaders. Reps. Ralph Holomon and I. L. Shields didn't say so, but they probably did not like the plan. The local law would hardly have been necessary, anyway, since the city commissioners of Columbus have the power now to limit the tenure by simply failing to reappoint the officers.

Follows Georgia Efforts are being made to have the Virginia legislature follow progressive action of Georgia's legislature. Bills have been presented to the Virginians to lower the voting age to 18 and to abolish the poll tax. Reports say the poll tax measure will pass, while sentiment on the 18-year-old plan is undetermined. Georgia is the only state to lower the voting age.

CHANNING COPE

The Man of the Year In Georgia Agriculture

We were delighted when the news reached us that Dr. Milton P. Jarnagin, head of the department of animal husbandry of the University of Georgia, had been named Man of the Year in Georgia agriculture, by the Progressive Farmer, and we hastened to ask Dr. Jarnagin just how he felt about this new honor. Here is his modest reply:

Mr. Channing Cope,
The Constitution,
Atlanta, Ga.
My dear Channing:

You ask me for a statement about how it feels to be designated as the man of the year in agriculture by the Progressive Farmer. My feelings in the matter are fully expressed in two words—gratitude and humility.

I feel that the action taken by this outstanding agricultural journal was in recognition of a fundamental economic factor in the development of the agriculture of the south rather than the recognition of an individual.

I am convinced that the animal industry has more to offer the farmers of the south today than any other branch of agriculture. A hope for the future is based on the splendid progress that has been made in the past. We have now reached the point where the gross farm income from livestock is greater than that derived from the sale of cotton and cottonseed. In addition to this the program of cropping that will give the maximum amount of feed at the lowest cost will provide the greatest protection of the land against soil erosion. Where the crops are fed to animals and the manure returned to the soil, the land becomes more productive with each succeeding year.

A very large group of men working with various state, federal and commercial agencies have all made a large contribution to this newer, more permanent and more prosperous system of farming. We now have enough scientific information; and a sufficient number of successful practical livestock farms in operation to warrant the belief that progress will be made at an accelerated rate during the next few years.

As I look back over a long period of years that I have been connected with the University of Georgia, the greatest source of satisfaction I have is the record of success of a large number of former students. They have assumed positions of leadership in every phase of agricultural education, livestock farming, and industry directly connected with agriculture. This fine group of men is responsible for much of the progress we have made in the past and they will make a large contribution to the future success and welfare of the state. I have abiding faith in their ability to carry on.

With best wishes and assurance of esteem, I am

Very truly yours,
MILTON P. JARNAGIN.

Dr. Jarnagin has done as much as or more than any other individual in bringing Georgia forward as a livestock state. He has earned everything nice than can be said about him.

WHILE THEY LAST!

Freedom Of the Press

WASHINGTON.—The question has been raised, and much too late, of "freedom of the press" for Army publications in which the buck private has been encouraged to believe that he has a right to talk back to his superiors. By what theory it ever was decided that such papers had any legitimate place in disciplined military forces we never have been told, the reason for this reticence being that such impudence cannot be reconciled with our military system and our laws governing the conduct of both officers and enlisted or drafted men.

The old, original Stars and Stripes was an experiment that turned out well, thanks to the happy coincidence of some young and mischievous men who displayed an opportune knack for lampooning themselves, their bosses and war in a genial and patriotic way.

WHEN THIS WAR came along, however, the columnists and the pinks first promoted a great expansion of such journalism and then contrived to plant themselves in the publications, as data in Army intelligence has positively noted. Failing that, they got jobs in press relations and various headquarters and the Communists were diligent to be good soldiers in the sense of not courting charges. Their purpose was to sit out the war without being killed or hurt and to acquire all the information and influence they could for use in the future. The present time is of that future.

All this doubtless will be developed in some phase of impending investigations and scandals. It was a nasty conspiracy and cynical almost beyond belief.

However, the dangers presented by Army journalism, under privilege, are worse than most of us, and that term includes high staff officers, have realized.

UNDER "FREEDOM OF THE PRESS," this journalism has a right to employ the most vicious of the guttersnipe gossips as "correspondents" and "columnists," with a right to express their opinions and publish the filthiest and most disruptive rumors about all superiors, from corporals to the secretary of war. Under such franchise, these vermin are not only protected in their violations of the commonest military laws but protected, as well, in their noncombat editorial assignments.

For, the more offensively they violate the regulations and the articles of war by holding their superiors and the whole command up to ridicule and contempt, the more angrily their supporters may protest that any rebuke, such as a demotion or a transfer to dangerous duties, was arranged by the offended "brass-hats" as a means of silencing criticism. It is a new application of the old, familiar system that plant managers in civilian industry encountered long ago, the martyr method which invoked the Wagner Act to prevent an employer from firing a saboteur and disrupter on the ground that he was being persecuted for "union activity." Any slacker, turned GI journalist, might cry that the captain or the general was sending him to his death because he was telling the truth.

Unless this so-called "GI journalism" is abolished, the principle will have been established, to the irreparable damage of the Army and the nation, that any man, even a colonel with a grudge against a general or a second lieutenant, has a privilege under "freedom of the press" to inspire vicious comments against that person in print and that the "writer" of the item, under journalistic privilege, may refuse to reveal his source. Bribery and corruption are thus invited. Any private, saluting punctiliously, may nevertheless have the right to deliver the most insulting public affronts to any officer under his own name as a "contributor," and get away with it.

IN AN ARMY, respect for rank is required and it cannot be compromised by an appeal to "journalism" which leaves the subordinate free to ridicule and lie about his superiors with no fear of punishment or responsibility for slander. Such papers, of course, are immune to civil suits for damages in libel.

Our civil, conventional, daily journalism has been grievously infected by this poison and the evil flowed straight into the blood stream of the service publications as soon as these low things were forced into uniform.

There is no room for freedom of the press or journalistic privilege in the American armed services and all such papers should be suppressed permanently.

If "brass-hats" have abused their power to "persecute the ranks, then the great and honored corps of correspondents for the civilian press would seem to have been almost criminally remiss in their reporting of the truth. Why haven't they told us about these impositions and why haven't they mentioned the names of the bad colonels and generals and given us times and places?

Americans Don't Regiment Easily

WASHINGTON.—There's been a lot of speculative talk lately about two things that have to do with labor.

One is whether labor should form a party of its own in this country, or become the nucleus of a new third party. This grows naturally from the strategy of conservative elements in both old parties forming a coalition in congress to check progressive legislation. That leaves the progressives out in the cold despite their impression that they won the last national election, and a few before that.

The other is speculation whether the upper hierarchy of labor—the fellows with the big titles who give out statements on behalf of millions of workers—haven't gotten too far out of touch with the average worker, haven't made a profession of speaking authoritatively from a sort of vacuum.

THERE'S A HABIT around this town, where there are so many professional spokesmen for so many groups, to drop in on a big name labor leader, or call him on the telephone, and then print what he says as the view of all those he represents. Over this the headline writer, operating in his groove, puts a line:

"Labor feels such and so—"

AND JOE BROWN, off somewhere in a factory, or a lot of Joe Browns, may not think that way at all. And Mary Brown, who has to watch the budget and the kids, may disagree violently. She may let Joe have it in both ears, so stridently perhaps that the big name labor leader could hear it if he let down the window of his limousine or his nice office back here.

It's the same way with business or farm groups and others.

IT'S NATURAL. This is such a big country we live in, with so many people in it, and so many different groups with different interests that we fall into the custom of putting people in compartments and labeling them. It does give a quick, convenient glance for the moment, but we ought to remember it has flaws. It's a truism to the point of an old saw, but the American people are a lot of individuals.

Which brings us to the third party talk which is heard most often among the intelligentsia satellites who hover about the big names in labor. One can talk about it for hours.

BUT NOW COMES along a poll, made for the publication "Factory" by Opinion Research Corp. of Princeton. It shows that only 10 per cent of labor believes that labor should form a new party, 33 per cent favoring working with the present parties, 47 per cent for staying out of politics, and 10 per cent with no opinion. A similar poll among foremen and clerical employes shows only 6 per cent for a new party; 34 for working with the present parties; 55 per cent for staying out of politics, and 5 per cent with no opinion.

This should make the third party planners stop and think.

THIS DOES NOT MEAN at all that labor can't be influential politically. In fact it has a nice balance of power that it can use most effectively as it demonstrated in the way CIO's Political Action Committee rounded up votes for Mr. Roosevelt in 1944. It ought to use this power for its interests, just as other groups do. It has much at stake.

But this poll would tend to indicate that there is a basic conservatism among labor about political departures for labor. It should serve, too, to calm some people who lately have got habitually frantic about "labor's power." Labor can probably use its power just as wisely as any other group, and can be depended upon to do some clear, straight thinking of its own.

THIS BRINGS UP the second subject of talk about whether the professional labor leaders at the top may have gotten out of touch.

Well, there is one interesting illustration. Philip Murray, CIO president, took to the radio one night and denounced President Truman's proposal for fact-finding boards in strangely intemperate language for the mild-mannered fellow he usually is. Yet a poll of the workers showed that 70 per cent were for Mr. Truman.

Remember how John L. Lewis walked out on Mr. Roosevelt and his miners stood by the late President? They loved John and are for him, but they wouldn't follow him politically.

It still looks as if we Americans don't regiment easily. Quiet flows the Potomac, with no signs of gore.

GALLUP POLL

One in Four Has the Flu

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J. — Approximately 29,500,000 people in the United States—twice as many people as the last census showed in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Boston and Detroit combined—had colds at one point during Christmas week, a coast-to-coast survey by the institute shows, and an additional 4,500,000 were down with flu or grippe.

With schools in many areas closed by the heavy incidence of respiratory disease, the survey reveals that more than one-third of the cold sufferers are children and young people under 19 years of age.

The fall and winter has likewise shown a heavy incidence of flu, the survey revealing that 27,000,000 people have either flu or grippe since the first of September.

This winter has been considerably worse for colds than last. The 29,500,000 cold sufferers in the survey compare with 21,000,000 at a similar time a year ago. Two years ago, one of the worst colds epidemics left 32,000,000 at a time suffering from the affliction in a single week, a survey at the time showed.

THE INCIDENCE of colds by ages is shown as follows in the survey:

	Est. Number With Colds
Aged under 10	6,500,000
10-19	4,500,000
20-29	4,000,000
30-49	7,000,000
50 and over	7,500,000
	29,500,000

The institute has conducted periodic checkups on the incidence of colds since 1941. The studies show that while the disease reaches its peak in the middle and late winter, even in July some 6,000,000 people normally have colds in a single week.

The proportion of farmers with colds has been found higher than in the rest of the population. This tends to contradict the long-accepted idea that people who work indoors in heated offices, and take little exercise, have more colds than those who work outdoors.

Marriage For Morons or Morons For Marriage?

FORT VALLEY.—Somebody said love must be durable to survive the wear and tear it encounters. No doubt, but the tender emotion has something to recommend it—it does the craziest things to people. The Florida judge who came out with the interesting, if startling, announcement that it is not against the law for morons to marry is on the right track. Not that all morons marry or that all the married people are morons, but just look what goes on in the realms of romance.

IT IS GENERALLY assumed that a legal unwinding is attended by a slight coolness on the part of the ex-love birds involved in the transaction. Well not at all, that is if we are to accept the marriage-by-marriage account of the maritial ventures of a devoted pair out in California. Their recipe for lasting wedlock is something out of this world—orange blossoms tastefully interspersed with decrees. And it works. The, ought to know, they are now on the fourth round.

For the past 15 years or so, this Abelard and Heloise have engaged in the fascinating pastime of flitting from minister to judge and back again. Always with each other. They wouldn't, in fact, dream of marrying anyone else. Peculiar? Not at all. They are merely in love. True they close the matrimonial books at frequent intervals but only for inventory so to speak. After a couple of years given over to contemplation of love's young dream they again say I do, until the next time. And there always is a next time.

WHAT, WE MAY well ask, impels this strange behavior; what powerful influence other than tax deduction, could inspire such undying affection? Love will do a lot but seldom will love part with four greenbacks (and the price is rising) for a series of marriage licenses with nothing new but the dateline. Yet here we have a damsel who inspires not one, but four (number also rising) of these prized tokens of esteem, and from the same loyal gent. Does he pause to ask if there is a discount in such cases? No, he gladly rushes off for a new one every time the old one begins to wear thin, and there is a reason. His little bride of yesterday, today, and tomorrow, keeps him guessing. She doesn't, she coyly admits, believe in letting him take her for granted. As for the habitual bridegroom, he too, tells all. She marries him, divorces him, and then can't let well enough alone, and all because he always lets her have her own way. "100 per cent."

Whether morons make for marriage or marriage makes for morons is a highly controversial subject, but one thing is certain, often the twain do meet.

OLLIE REEVES

"Nevada miner, with morbid fear of being buried alive, wills body to medical group."—News item.

When we sit down to contemplate the mystery of man's estate,
To do our best to figure out just what this life is all about,
No stranger thoughts befog our brain than this, which we cannot explain.
We feel, though we are great or small, the most important one of all,
We may have hair that's gray and thin, cross-eyes and a receding chin,
So homely, little children cry in horror when we're passing by;
The disappointments we have had may make us bitter, mean or sad,
But to our egos we will cling and life is still a precious thing.
We know, eventually, we must, like all who live, return to dust—
Although we do not count for much we hold to life with avid clutch,
Our eyes grow dim, our teeth are drilled, we're tonic-charged and over-pilled,
Our shoulder-blades project in points and there is creaking in the joints—
We struggle, worry, fret and slave and wreck the body we would save,
Then join the legions of the past, safe in the doctor's hands . . . at last.

Milk Fund Wrestling It isn't often the fans of Atlanta have a chance to see 16 wrestlers on one program. Promoter Paul Jones, staging his weekly matches in behalf of The Constitution sports department's Milk Fund, has engaged the services of 16 matmen and Man Mountain Dean, as referee of the main event.

The big attraction is scheduled for tonight at the city auditorium. Advance ticket sales are extra good. But there will be plenty of good seats for late comers.

Herbie Welch, the junior heavyweight champion, and Vic Emanuel, of Phoenix, will headline the Milk Fund program. It is bound to be a stellar attraction.

Many fans will like the semi-windup just as well. It features popular Al Massey and the Canadian, Jack LaRue.

Take Fred Ward, the old Marist football star. Fred, who wrestles under the name of Young Tommy Londos, is back in town after a long spell of special government work. He worked on many vessels, destroyers and such, installing heating appliances. And he did other work in relation to the war effort.

Young Londos is on the card and will attract a big following.

Bruce White and Roy Mitchell, Atlanta policemen, will do their part for the Milk Fund. Gentleman John Mauldin, well-known man about town, will take on Son Almand.

Ed Henegar, of New York, engages Wally Greb, of Pittsburgh. Charles Harbin meets Mitchell. Joe Estes is the opponent for Young Londos.

It is going to be quite an attraction of wrestling, and all proceeds above actual expenses will be turned over to the Milk Fund by Promoter Jones.

Other Events To Come This is the first of some 20 athletic events that will be staged during the winter, spring and summer in the interest of the Milk Fund.

When enough capital has been accumulated in the trust fund, which is being handled by The Constitution's Art Kaiser, construction of a modest field house for underprivileged children will begin.

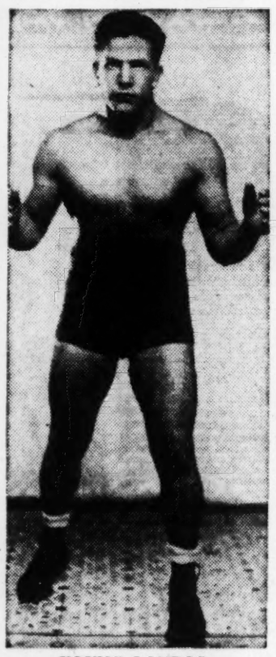
It is the plan to have outdoor and indoor athletic facilities—plus a milk, soup and sandwich bar. The recreation will be supervised.

We are cognizant of the fact that Atlanta is 'way behind the more progressive cities in this respect. And we can easily include Mexico, D. F.

Two hundred new athletic plants are being constructed in and around Mexico City this year. Everything possible is being done for the welfare of the children.

There is, of course, much juvenile delinquency in Mexico, but the government, city and state, is takink steps through widespread athletic programs, to combat it.

We are not thinking too much in terms of juvenile delinquency in making plans for an adequate field house. We are thinking of the good it will do underprivileged children, both from the standpoint of exercise and fellowship and the nourishing food that will be provided.



YOUNG LONDOS

We are indebted to Paul Jones for his generosity in giving us such a fine wrestling attraction to start the Milk Fund rolling. It may be, later on, that Promoter Jones will stage boxing events for the fund. He has expressed this desire.

At this time we wish to express hearty thanks to all of those who have bought tickets for tonight's program and to thank, in advance, all others who are contemplating giving the Milk Fund wrestling attraction their support.

Army Training Yesterday we wrote of some of the experiences overseas of El Capitan, Forrest (Spec) Towns, of the University of Georgia coaching staff.

We noted that Towns' high-hurdle mark of 13.7, established in the Olympic games, still stands, and probably will endure for some time to come.

Overseas, the c. o. of Towns' outfit decided Spec should run the high hurdles in an intercompany track meet.

Towns patiently explained it had been many years since he had engaged in track.

"But," the c. o. said, "you have a WHOLE WEEK to get in shape!"

Towns tried, but pulled up lame the day before the meet. It was the first time in his life that he had a pulled leg muscle.

Old age seems to be creeping up on Towns, who makes his best speed in an automobile nowadays. For our money he can enter the 500-mile race at Indianapolis any year.

Bitsy Will Work On His Forehand

Bitsy Grant, three times national clay courts champion before entering the Army, is reserving decision on further national tennis competition pending work on his forehand stroke.

Now 36 years old and a veteran of four years in the Air Corps, Grant said it was his lack of a forearm stroke that cost him the final match against Billy Talbert in the recent Dixie tournament at Tampa.

Big Leaguers to Play

The Brooklyn Dodger and the New York Yankee Bradenton squads will play several spring exhibition games in Georgia. They will play April 1 in Waycross, April 2, in Valdosta, April 3, at Macon and April 4 at Augusta.

Sports Arena Books Three Sunday Games

Three colorful basketball games have been scheduled for Sunday afternoon at the Sports Arena. At 2 p. m. Fort McPherson's Whiz Kids will face the Columbus, Ga., Boys' Club, while at 3 the Sports Arena team takes on the Fort Benning School Troop Demons, and at 4 the undefeated Fort Benning Snipers play the equally strong Charleston Army Air Base quint. The latter are also unbeaten.

An empty house is more expensive than a Want Ad in The Constitution that will rent it.

Prep Fives In Top Spot Tonight

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

They'll be firing the big guns tonight when practically every high school cage team in the Atlanta area will be in action either here or on foreign hardwood. Sharing local interest will be the twin bills at Henry Grady court and Druid Hills.

O. V. Bruner's Tech High five, unbeaten as yet by a Georgia quintet, will engage Lawrence Whalen's GMA club, winner in its only start, after the B teams of the two schools raise the curtain at 7 p. m. The NGIC leadership will be at stake when the Decatur Bulldogs invade the Druid Hills' court for a bout with the Hillers. Both teams are unbeaten, the home quint having won five to the Bulldogs' four.

The league-leading Decatur girls will open the firing against the Druid Hills lassies at 7:30 p. m.

Meanwhile Boys High, sans the service of Ed Swanson, Jack Griffin and Ewell Pope, who are graduating soon, will be the underdogs in Macon against Tom Porter's Lanier Poets, unbeaten defenders of the GIAA championship. Charlie Bollinger, with 72 points in four games for the Poets, is high scorer in the association and will be a tough hombre to stop in the Big Six League game.

Undermanned Marist, still seeking a Big Six victory, will help Columbus High inaugurate loop season in Columbus in another melee tonight. Tech High will engage Columbus and Marist will tangle with Jordan in a big twin bill there the following night.

Several other double-headers between NGIC outfits, all starting at 7:30 p. m., with the girls' teams taking the floor first, will be vying for the spotlight in Atlanta tonight. Fulton High's lads and lassies will invade the College Park court to battle the Rams; Commercial's clubs will battle Russell on the latter's boards, and the Washington Seminary-North Fulton girls' tilt will be followed by the North Fulton-West Fulton boys' game at North Fulton, where the Bulldogs still are walking on clouds over their 28-25 upset of Boys High this week.

Bob Hamilton Leads Golfers

RICHMOND, Calif. Jan. 17. (UP)—"Unlucky" Bob Hamilton, Chicago shotmaker who staged one of golf's biggest upsets in 1944 when he won the National PGA championship, took the lead in the opening round of the $10,000 Richmond Open Golf tournament today with a three-under-par 68.

Deadlocked for second place with 69s were six golfers: Joe Brown, Los Angeles; Armand Farina, Schenectady, N. Y.; Jimmy Hines, Chicago; Tony Penna, Dayton, Ohio, John Perilli, Lake Tahoe, Calif., and Charles Stohland, Ponca City, Okla.

Still close on the pace, each with 70, were Sam Byrd, Detroit; Willie Goggin, White Plains, N. Y.; Denny Shute, Akron, Ohio, Vic Ghezzi, Nashville, Tenn.; Leland Gibson, Kansas City, Mo., and Amateur Smiley Quick, Chino, Calif.; who won the Simon-pure division in the recent Los Angeles Open.

Bryant Decries Strike on Campus

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Jan. 17. (AP)—A strike of University of Maryland students today brought from the man for whom they were demonstrating the comment that "spread of this strike psychology to classrooms is mighty dangerous."

The students established picket lines at morning classes when they learned that Head Football Coach Paul Bryant, who developed their best team in years last fall, had signed a five-year contract with the University of Kentucky.

Fox Hunt Continues In Freezing Weather

Welch Defends His Title On Milk Fund Card Tonight

By FRANK PERICOLA

HERB WELCH
Puts Belt on Line Tonight.

There will be seven matches in all, and 16 wrestlers will compete on the card arranged by Promoter Paul Jones. The first preliminary gets under way at 8:30.

Welch, who hails from Dyersburg, Tenn., will take his championship belt into the ring for his battle with Emanuel, who has compiled such a fine record that he was given the title shot by Promoter Jones. This match will be one fall to a finish.

The semifinals pits Jack Larue, the tough Canadian, against Jack Massey, popular young heavyweight from Miami. Massey gave Bill Longson, world's heavyweight champion, a rough battle a couple of weeks ago before being defeated after he was thrown from the ring.

A tag team match, always popular with local fans, will further enliven the card. Dick Lever and Bill Collins will team up against Jack Kelley and B. B. White, Atlanta policemen. Anything can happen, and often does, in these team battles.

The preliminaries, which will have 15-minute time limits, pit Ed Henegar, of New York City, against Wally Greb, of Pittsburgh, and Charles Harbin against Roy Mitchell, Son Almand against John Mauldin and Young Tommy Londos against Joe Estes in all-Atlanta battles.

Net proceeds will go to the Milk Fund of The Constitution sports department. The pass list is being suspended for this reason. Tickets are on sale at the Adam Hat Store.

Laney's Tip Top Bob Wins Members' Derby

By BERT PRATHER,
Constitution Staff Writer.

WAYNESBORO, Ga., Jan. 17.—Tip Top Bob was tops today, and as a result his owner, E. J. Laney, of Beaver, Pa., is the proud possessor of the trophy which goes annually to the winner of the Members' Derby in the Georgia Field Trial Association meet now in progress on the Sidney Jones plantation near here.

Bob, a sleek 2-year-old black-and-white pointer, proved to be a good mudder. The fields were soggy and soft after two days of heavy rain, but Tip Top Bob came through with a fine run to get the first-place nod by judges and Hunter Pope over a field of 19 starters.

The winner had no finds. In fact, not a bird was found by any of the Derbys during the day's competition. This was attributed to the damp condition of the course.

Laney's winner is trained by Herman Smith. Today's win was his third. Bob grabbed off a first at Tenneva last fall and captured the championship at Orlando, Fla. Tip Top Bob will be back in action next week in the Open Derby as will most of the other starters in today's stake.

Second place today was taken by Shore's Brownie Doone, who is owned and handled by Sandy Shore, Booneville, N. C., sportsman. Doone, a white-and-orange pointer, won previous amateur derby titles at Medford, Mass., Delaware English Setter Club, and Rappahannock, Va.

PITTSBURGH COACH SAYS HE'LL STAY

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 17. — (AP)—Football Coach Clark Shaughnessey, of the University of Pittsburgh, arrived back in town today and immediately asked:

'What's all the shootin' for?"

Rumors during his weeklong absence, fanned by his failure to attend the coaches meeting at St. Louis, had him leaving Pitt for coaching posts all the way from the University of Florida to the Washington Redskins and Chicago Bears.

Bollinger Tops GIAA Scorers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Charley Bollinger, 6-foot-4 center for the Lanier High Poets, of Macon, is leading the GIAA Conference scoring race with 72 points, averaging exactly 18 points in four basketball games. Bollinger's top efforts was 24 points scored against Benedictine Academy, of Savannah.

Eddie Sheffield, Benedictine forward, is second with 53 points in three games, an average of slightly less than 18. He tallied 20 points as Lanier's Bollinger sank his 24. Against Columbus, Sheffield tossed in 25, highest for conference place thus far among all players.

Jack Abell, of Jordan High, Columbus, ranks third with 45 for five games, but several players have better averages for fewer games. Snake Swanson, of Boys High, has 38 points in three games and John Rousakis, of Savannah High, has averaged 12 in three

Zollners Better on Offense Than Celtics, Says Irish Coach

Another well-known basketball personality has climbed aboard the Fort Wayne bandwagon, claiming that the world champion Zollners are a greater offensive team than the old Original Celtics.

Author of that statement is Elmer Riply, Notre Dame's basketball coach, who continues his endorsement of the two-time pro kings by saying: "They're not as tough defensively as the Celtics, but in this game we're playing today nobody thinks too much about defense. It's the offensive attack that counts and Fort Wayne has that in no uncertain terms."

Fort Wayne will face enough opposition at Sports Arena Thursday night to give fans a good idea of the pros' skill, because Johnny Moon will put a good club on the floor against McDermott & Company.

There will be a nifty semi-final on the show featuring the rough-and-ready Paris Island Marines against Ralph Hamilton and the ASF Officers. When this game is concluded stars of both teams will combine with the best on the Sports Arena club to oppose the Zollners.

Tickets for the appearance of the world's greatest basketball machine may be obtained at Reeder-McGaughey Sports Goods and Adam Hat Store.

Bulldogs Lose Byrne, Freshman Center

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 17.—Don Byrne, 195-pound freshman center from Pittsburgh, who played in several 1945 games for the Bulldogs, was inducted into the Army today.

Mike Cooley, No. 1 center, has received notice to report for a physical. Bob Sanders, tackle from Augusta, and Gene Frank, reserve halfback, also were ordered to report for physicals.

Tech Mermen To Face Duke

Georgia Tech's swimming team will be host to Duke University in a dual meet at the Tech natatorium at 6:45 tonight. The public is invited.

Led by the only returning veteran of last year's team, the Yellow Jackets are expected to be especially strong in the distance and backstroke events. This will be the second meet of the season for Tech and the team is rounding into mid-season form under the tutelage of Coach Freddie Lanoue and Assistant Coach Lynn Keyes.

In the season opener the Jackets bowed to North Carolina's powerful Tarheels, undefeated for three years and current favorites to win the national collegiate championships this spring.

Capt. Rolfe may break the Tech 220-yard and quarter-mile records, and Freshman Charlie Flowers, of Columbus, is favored to take the 150-yard backstroke. Hugo Scheuer, another freshman, from Buenos Aires, has improved greatly in the 200-yard breaststroke event in recent time trials.

POST-WAR BOOM SEEN

More Than 100 Entered In AAU Swimming Meet

By FRANK PERICOLA

A postwar boom in competitive swimming is taking shape here. This is evidenced by the increasing interest in the Southeastern A. A. U. junior men's championships to be decided Saturday night at the Emory University pool, beginning at 8 o'clock.

Thus far there have been 107 entries and spirited team competition will be provided by the Atlanta Swimming Club, Pensacola Naval Air Station, Duke University, Georgia Tech, Birmingham Swimming Association and Boys High school.

Atlanta has many promising entries, including Ray Cunningham, Tommy McDonough, Lee Heist and Bill Van Pelt of the Atlanta Swimming Club, John Hiles of Boys High and Ryle Rolfe of Georgia Tech.

The Pensacola Navy is expected to provide formidable competition in the men's championship, with a team of 20. Atlanta Swimming Association has entered 16 in the championship and 29 in the closed events. Duke has a team of 15.

The Birmingham 16-man team is headed by Frank Hull.

Gold, silver and bronze medals are awaiting the individual winners, and there will be a trophy for the team title.

Nine championship and six closed events are on the program.

Graziano Slugfest on WAGA Tonight

New York's mauling madman, Rocky Graziano (above) and power-punching George "Sonny" Horne of Long Island have it out at Madison Square Garden tonight. This promising middleweight punchfest is scheduled to go ten rounds—but may not!

In five appearances at the famous Cauliflower Garden, Rock-a-bye Rocky has registered five spectacular kayos, a record few have equalled in Garden history! He's a savage slasher with a jaw-breaking right.

Horne, however, can absorb plenty of punishment without showing it. He's fast, cagey, shifty and enjoys a distinct advantage over Graziano in boxing skill. The beak-busting trade looks for a blistering battle.

Enjoy the excitement, blow-by-blow, on Gillette's Cavalcade of Sports over American Broadcasting Co. and WAGA (590 on your dial) at 10 p. m.

Dickey's Future Is Question Mark

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Bill Dickey's future is one of the big question marks in the camp of the New York Yankees whose roster lists 53 assorted athletes, including 21 pitchers.

Although the great catcher has been separated from the Navy neither Manager Joe McCarthy, President Larry MacPhail nor Publicist Arthur Patterson profess to know what he plans to do.

Dickey was quoted in Memphis yesterday as saying, "I doubt if I'll do any more playing but I'd like to stay in baseball if I can find the right spot." That was still news in the swank New York offices in the Squibb building.

Not that the Yanks are short on catchers for their roster lists seven receivers but it goes without saying that none are to be mentioned in the same breath with the great Dickey, at least.

Tech Five Plays Duke Tonight

Georgia Tech's Yellow Jacket basketballers, victors in four games out of six, meet the undefeated Duke Blue Devils tonight at the Tech gym. The game begins at 8 o'clock.

Tech began its season by beating Clemson twice and Auburn once before bowing to Alabama, 44-37, and Tulane, 58-45. Wednesday night Coach Dwight Keith's lads walloped Auburn again, 53-26.

Duke's victories include a surprise win over the strong North Carolina five. The Southern Conference champs have won nine in a row.

Keith will probably start Jim Ray and Johnny Doyle at forwards, Jim Nolan at center, and Bob Davis and Mouse Echols at guards. The latter injured his knee in the Tulane game and is not in the best of shape.

Duke has six returning lettermen, George Brunner, Ted Green and Ed Koffenberger at center, Joseph Brand and John Seward, forwards; and Bob Roellke, guard. In addition Tom Cordell, forward, lettered at Louisiana Tech and Dick Whiting is a letterman from Muhlenberg. Koffenberger scored 94 points in Duke's first eight games. Duke's starters will be Buck Cheek and Seward at forwards; Koffenberger, center, and Whiting and Dick Gordon, guards.

After the basketball game the Tech and Duke wrestlers will square off in the opening wrestling meet of the season for Tech.

Eldredge Planning To Enroll at Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 17.—(AP)—David Eldredge, of Miami, halfback at Georgia Tech before entering the service three years ago, said today he would enter the University of Miami in February in order to be "nearer home."

Eldredge said Tech had offered to renew his athletic scholarship, but he had been away 36 months and desired to remain in Miami with his parents.

Hialeah Inaugural Is Won by Ellis

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Jan. 17. (AP)—A record-smashing opening day crowd of about 25,000 today saw Ellis, flying the colors of A. F. Plock, sweep to a two-length victory in the first section of Hialeah Park's Inaugural Handicap.

Marietta Lions Win

Marietta Lions beat Jonesboro Athletic Club, 44-41, in the feature game last night at the Sports Arena. Anderson scored 18 and Foster 16 points for Marietta and McDavid 12 for Jonesboro.

In a girls' game, the Tomboys beat North Avenue Presbyterian, 38-6, with Maynard and Abbott getting 12 points each. The V-8s beat the Straight Eights, 42-38, with McCullough scoring 20 for the winners and P. McDaniel 10 for the losers.

Fire at Hialeah

Tech Gets Jordan

Jimmy Jordan, star halfback at West End High, Birmingham, last year, will enter Georgia Tech Feb. 25, his family announced yesterday at Birmingham.

Ex-Policeman Found Guilty Of 'Rolling' War Veteran

Although a jury in the Fulton superior court has convicted Paul Dowis, former Fulton county police lieutenant, on a charge of larceny from the person, and recommended that the case be treated as a misdemeanor, Solicitor Gen. E. E. Andrews has announced that he will bitterly oppose any efforts to obtain probation or a suspended sentence.

Dowis was found guilty by a jury in Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy's division of superior court, and under the jury sentence law, was given a minimum of two and a maximum of two years. In its verdict, the jury recommended that Judge Pomeroy treat the case as a misdemeanor.

Once regarded as a possible contender for the office of chief of Fulton county police, Dowis was indicted jointly with James H. Walden on a charge of theft of a government check for $214, stolen from Talmadge Hopper, a recen. discharged soldier.

Hopper alleged he was picked up by two men in the waiting room of the bus station, and that these same two men later "rolled" him for the check, which he had received when discharged from the Army.

Dowis had been under suspension from the police department for some time on charges of "conduct unbecoming an officer."

The charges against him were prosecuted by Paul Webb, assistant solicitor.

"I wish to go on record now as saying I will oppose any effort to let Dowis off with a suspended sentence or with probation," Solicitor Andrews said last night when he heard of the jury's action.

"Dowis has been found guilty of taking money a man had earned by fighting and risking his life for his government, and we law enforcement officers should not treat that type of crime lightly. If I have anything to do with it, he will serve time in the penitentiary."

dent's proposal or a steel strike, scheduled to begin Monday.

At Detroit, the auto workers committee members professed ignorance of the purpose of Murray's summons.

Ross said Murray and Fairless came to the White House at 2 p. m. to resume negotiations and were summoned to the President's office two hours later.

They reported they still were in disagreement, he added, whereupon Mr. Truman offered his proposal, which he previously said he would do in event of a deadlock.

With available meat supplies approaching the vanishing point in some areas, the administration appointed a fact finding board to look into the two-day strike of 263,000 packinghouse workers and confer with the principals.

In the steel dispute, where 800,000 CIO workers have called a strike for Monday, President Truman conferred earlier with his steel fact-finding board.

CONGRESS ACTS

Congress, meanwhile, took two-bladed action to stem the mounting industrial strife. The House Labor Committee decided to complete action by Tuesday on fact finding or some other type of labor legislation, and in the senate, Sen. Eastland, Democrat, Mississippi, submitted a motion to discharge the labor committee from further consideration of fact finding legislation. Eastland's motion, to be considered at the next session, would permit senate debate on the fact finding bill without delay.

Other developments along the labor front included:

1—Albert J. Fitzgerald, president of the CIO United Electrical Workers Union, whose 200,000 members struck Tuesday, told the Senate Labor Committee he was willing to accept arbitration from scratch, without regard to wage offers in other industries or his union's original demand for a $2 daily wage increase.

2—Thirteen senators wrote to President Truman urging that the Office of Price Administration be ordered to seize and operate Midwest Truck Lines which have been tied up 60 days by a drivers' strike.

3. Representatives of six independent unions met in New York to discuss strike action which a union spokesman said might cripple Western Electric Company's facilities throughout the country and result in another national telephone tieup.

AUTO GAP OPEN

4. The CIO-United Auto Workers and the Ford Motor Company failed to close the 2-cents-an-hour gap in their wage deadlock and scheduled another meeting for today.

With no new walkouts reported, the number of strike idle across the nation remained at 886,000, highest since the start of the war.

Fitzgerald's proposal for arbitration of the electrical appliances workers' strike brought no immediate response from the three companies affected—General Electric, Westinghouse and General Motors.

In New York, T. I. Phillips, Westinghouse vice president, said the strike was "halting work on several of the nation's most-vital military projects, including atomic bomb components."

He charged the union picketing was preventing "adequate maintenance and protection" of the company's big East Pittsburgh works and that as a result "at least two months" may be required to get into normal production when the strike ends.

In Los Angeles several persons were injured, three of them seriously, and 25 were arrested yesterday as police used clubs and tear gas to enforce a court injunction forbidding forcible picketing of the United States Motors plants, where CIO electrical workers are on strike for higher wages.

Warren Coming Today to Talk On Labor Topics

Edgar L. Warren, director of the U. S. Conciliation Service, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C., will visit Atlanta today and tomorrow to discuss with commissioners of the Atlanta regional office current and future policies and procedures under its expanding program.

E. L. Warren

Prior to joining the War Labor Board staff Warren served as director of the industry committee branch of wage and hour division of the Department of Labor. From 1933 to 1938 he was an economist with the Department of Agriculture in Washington. Also, he served as economist for the Talston-Purine Company in St. Louis for seven years.

His work included the assistant stabilization directorship of the National War Labor Board for a year prior to his appointment as chairman of the regional board in Kansas City in November, 1943. He also was a public member of the Wage Adjustment Board and acting deputy director of the national board in charge of industrial commissions and panels.

Warren's discussions will be based principally on the decentralization program of the Atlanta regional office, which began January 1.

Educator Calls For Independent College Studies

A higher education course with students doing at least a fifth of their junior and senior work in independent study, to replace the outmoded programs in American colleges was recommended by Dr. Howard F. Lowry, of Wooster College, Wooster, Ohio, here yesterday.

Dr. Lowry is of the opinion that the college curricula should be planned with the idea of the training not ending with the cap and gown days, but rather give the student a thirst for knowledge that will continue in days to come.

You may ask "if independent study is so rewarding, why have classes at all?" Dr. Lowry's answer to that is that classes are the "correction of the method and prevent it becoming too one-sided."

Dr. Lowry is giving a series of lectures at Agnes Scott College and spoke last night at Presser Hall. He will lecture again at 10:15 today in the chapel.

"The Southerner," Jean Renior's sprawling pictorial of the life of a southwestern sharpecropper and his poverty-stricken brood, which was banned by the Memphis, Tenn., censor, opened at Loew's Grand yesterday unmolested by Atlanta's guardian of morals, Christine Smith.

A great deal of the publicity about "The Southerner" and some of the paid advertisements have led the reader to believe the movie has a sex angle and is morally questionable. We'd like to discount this. There's nothing suggestive. It was banned in Memphis simply because the censor felt it was "not a favorable picture of life in the south."

We agree with the Memphis censor in that. But while "The Southerner" does no mud-slinging as did "Tobacco Road," it points out a peculiarly sensitive problem in the south—the need for crop and floor controls. And what's more, such things as are pictured in this film do exist in the south.

Adapted from the Novel, "Hold Autumn in Your Hand," the story vividly portrays the plight of the young farmer (Zachry Scott) who sees his dreams of independence—a farm of his own—dashed to bits by a ravishing flood. Scott takes his starving, ill-clad wife, children and grandmother to a tumbledown shack in rural Texas. Despite the hopeless outward appearance of the whole situation, he is determined to make a success of a piece of bottom land. Every element of nature and discouraging factor of man's evil handiwork fails to discourage him, and as the picture closes, he reaffirms his faith in the future and asserts his intentions of another try, the next year. In this, we have a true picture of the determination of the southern farmer.

If fault is to be found with "The Southerner" it is in the fact that Renoir focused too much attention on personalities—too little on telling a story. Beulah Bondi, as the snuff dipping "granny," does a remarkable portrayal, but we think too much emphasis was placed on her importance to the film. Her's is a character sketch. The same goes for J. Carroll Naish as the frost-bitten, selfish neighbor farmer who refuses Scott permission to draw water from his well.

Scott and his co-star, Betty Field, who now is being starred in a Broadway comedy, are excellently cast in the roles of the farmer and his wife and there are other minor roles, capably handled by Percy Kilbride and others not on the credit sheet.

"The Southerner" is a good movie, worthy of three bells on The Constitution's movie meter. It's adult entertainment.

STOCK SALES

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(AP)—While assorted favorites managed to post new highs in today's stock market, profit cashing became more insistent and numerous early gains of fractions to two points or so were substantially reduced or converted into minus signs at the close.

Hopes for settlement of wage disputes in the steel, automotive and other important industries still provided a bullish argument, as did the persistence of inflation psychology. The climb of nearly five points in the averages since Jan. 2, with a series of 15-year peaks, however, caused many customers to stand aside in preparation for a technical correction.

Dealings, fast at intervals after opening, tapered frequently but turnover aggregated 2,200,000 shares compared with 2,100,000 Wednesday. It was the eighth consecutive full session of better than 2,000,000. Prices generally gave ground in the final half hour, as rails softened.

Most railroad issues advanced fractionally to more than a point in today's bond market. There were scattered minus signs in all categories, but an upward trend predominated.

In the clurb, Brown-Forman Distillers gained 2½. Tilting forward were New England Telephone, Utah Power preferred, Consolidated Mining and Electric Bond & Share. Turnover here was 970,000 shares versus 890,000 yesterday.

HIDDEN HUNGER—Dr. T. F. Abercrombie (standing) presided at a community health forum yesterday which discussed the necessity for better eating habits. Mrs. John F. MacDougall is president of the Atlanta Woman's Club, which sponsored the forum. Dr. J. G. Woodroof (left) was one of the 11 food experts who spoke.

'Three Squares' May Not Suffice, Atlantans Told

Even though you eat three square meals a day, you can suffer from hidden hunger—a shortage of essential minerals and vitamins.

This was brought out yesterday at the community health forum sponsored by the Atlanta Woman's Club. Over 200 school and civic leaders heard Dr. T. F. Abercrombie, director of the state department of public health, who presided, and 11 food experts discuss methods of fighting the rise of dietary deficiencies among Georgians.

Foods must be grown in richer soil, they must be handled correctly to preserve the nutrients and they must be purchased and prepared with more care, was the consensus of the speakers.

"If we could solve the problem of nutrition," said Dr. Abercrombie in his opening speech, "we would cure most of the ills of the human race. When we consider our dietary habits, we wonder how the human race has gotten along as well as it has."

The three speakers who discussed the necessity for better food production methods emphasized the fact that southern soil, which is particularly poor in mineral content, must be replenished through fertilization and protected from erosion so that more nutritious foods can be grown.

The speakers were B. H. Hendrickson, project supervisor of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service; W. D. Barton, sales manager of the Tennessee Corp., and Dr. Mary Spiers, of the Georgia Agricultural Experiment Station.

Agreeing that refrigeration and freezing were two answers to the problem of preserving vitamins and minerals in food until it is marketed were four distribution experts—Mrs. Herbert E. Porter, manager of the Modern Ice Center; C. D. Wayne, plant manager of Southern Dairies; H. M. Morris, representative of the Southeastern Chain Store council, and Bill Campbell, manager of the J. A. Campbell Co.

CHARGES GI'S MUST SALUTE JEEPS WITH GENERAL STARS EVEN IF EMPTY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Rep. Rees, Republican, Kansas, told the house Thursday that GIs on a small South Pacific island have been ordered to salute empty jeeps bearing the white stars of generals.

"I thought the house should know," Rees said, "that it has gotten to the place where our boys must not only salute officers but their empty jeeps as well."

Rees declined to say where the order was issued, but read it into the Congressional Record as follows:

"All Army vehicles bearing the white star of a general officer will be saluted whether it is occupied by a general or not. The vehicle will be saluted if it passes a soldier on the street or if the vehicle is stationary and the soldier passes it. The soldier will also salute all officers riding in a vehicle. When saluting, the soldier should turn his head in the direction of the vehicle or officer and look directly at the object of his salute. All salutes should be rendered wholeheartedly with snap and precision and in a military manner."

Sears' Dixie Chief, Cheered, Ends Visit

Impressed by the hope for the future and enthusiasm he found during his 11-day visit here, Jackson F. Moore, head of the newly-established southern regional office of Sears, Roebuck and Company, left Atlanta yesterday for Chicago.

Moore, a native of Iowa, has been in Atlanta conferring with businessmen and manufacturers concerning details of his company's projected $15,000,000 spending program in the southeast. His plans are to return to Atlanta Feb. 1 as a permanent resident.

Paid Out Farmers To Hear Arnall At Annual Dinner

Gov. Arnall will be principal speaker at the second annual "paid-out" dinner, honoring borrowers under the farm ownership program of the Farm Security Administration who paid for their farms in 1945, at 6:30 p. m. today at the Henry Grady hotel.

More than 100 paid-out owners and 122 paid-out white borrowers are eligible to attend, R. L. Vansant, state FSA director, said. The dinner is sponsored by the Georgia Farm Security Advisory Committee, headed by Louie Morris.

Vansant said that there was about a 50 per cent increase in the number of paid-out borrowers this year over the number who made final farm payments in 1944.

Dillard Lasseter, newly-appointed national FSA administrator, will attend the meeting. Lasseter will meet with four state FSA directors at a luncheon at 1 p. m. today at the Henry Grady hotel. They are: R. L. Vansant, Athens; M. H. Pearson, of Auburn, Ala.; R. F. Kolb, of Columbia, S. C., and J. A. Texada Jr., of Gainesville, Fla.

POLITE ROBBER GETS A DEAD DOG

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 17. (AP)—A woman reported today a man had offered politely to hold her heavy shopping bag while she waited for a bus—and then he ran off with it.

She was en route to a relative's farm to bury a dead dog which she was carrying in the bag.

IT WOULD BE HARD TO PRAISE RETONGA TOO MUCH, SAYS MR. FORD

MR. J. P. FORD

Has Fine Appetite Now, Even For Breakfast; Sleeps Restfully and Feels Fine, States Well Known Farmer and Sawmill Owner. Discusses His Case.

"Retonga is far ahead of anything in my whole experience, and I have spent my share of money on medicines," gratefully declares Mr. J. P. Ford, well-known farmer and sawmill operator of Route 3, Summerville, Georgia, in discussing this famous herbal stomachic and Vitamin B-1 medicine. Mr. Ford is one of the best-known residents of Chattooga County and has resided on his present home site all his life. Discussing his case, he happily continued:

"For a couple of years I seemed to go downhill fast in spite of everything I could do. My appetite was gone and practically every morning I woke up feeling so sick at my stomach I could hardly bear the thought of breakfast. What little food I managed to eat the rest of the day caused so much gas in my stomach that often it pressed against my chest until I felt like my breath would be cut off. At night I was uncomfortable and restless and it seemed to me I was up and down all night long. I was so badly bothered with constipation that I had to use one kind of laxative after another to get any results. I felt rundown almost to the point of exhaustion.

"The relief Retonga gave me beats anything I ever saw. Before the first bottle was gone, I was feeling lots better. I took four bottles all told and I feel like a different person. I enjoy every meal, even breakfast; and I sleep restfully every night. All that terrible gas, constipation and restless rundown feeling have been relieved and I hardly know when I felt better. Retonga deserves all the praise I can give it."

Retonga is a purely herbal gastric tonic combined with liberal quantities of Vitamin B-1 and is intended to relieve distress due to insufficient flow of gastric juices in the stomach, loss of appetite, Vitamin B-1 deficiency and constipation. Accept no substitute. Retonga may be obtained at Square Deal Drug Store, 10 Broad St., N. W., opposite The Arcade and May's Cut Rate Drug Store, 112 Whitehall St., next to Sterchi's.—(adv.)

RICH'S

ON THE AIR

By PAUL JONES

Two "visiting firemen from Hollywood join forces to swap impressions of New York when Charles Coburn, one of the movie capital's leading character actors, makes a guest appearance on the "Ginny Simms Show" on WGST at 7:30 p. m.

Coburn, who played Ginny's uncle in her current movie, "Shady Lady," will give the Hollywood stongstress some avuncular advice on how to get along with the city slickers. An actor for 47 years, Coburn knows New York from way back in the first year of the century when he made his New York stage debut in "Up York State."

Ginny brings some new as well as some familiar songs to the microphone and again turns the spotlight on a talented veteran as part of her "Give a Discharged Serviceman a Job" campaign.

Always open to suggestion when it comes to cultural improvements, Ed "Archie" Gardner angles for a "Met groaner" to sing for a song on "Duffy's Tavern" heard at 8:30 p. m. on WSB.

Con man Dave Hossinger arrives with the 18-year-old singer, Rickie Jordan. He offers the golden-voiced boy to "Archie" for four dollars a week while he's grooming him for the Met, but the language-mangling manager reasons that a four-dollar-a-week man can't be much. It isn't until the ante is upped to eight dollars per week that "Archie" sees the young man's potentialities and hires him.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

GULLIBLE GIRLS

Many women in this neighborhood are drinking a tea made of sasafras root for reducing flesh. The formula was printed in a household vegetarian health magazine. (W. L. J.)

Answer—The sasafras would be harmless, but I'll bet a complete set of the works of the conductor of this column against a clipping of the recipe that it calls for at least one ingredient the sucker has to buy at the drugstore for a fancy price. Whether that ingredient is harmful or not, I do not know.

CAUGHT GATHERING WOOL

You said in your article on Undulant Fever that when there is reason to question the purity of milk, the milk "should be boiled for five minutes, or scalded (brought to a boil for one minute) or pasteurized (heated to 150 degrees F. for half an hour.)" Please explain why any one should boil milk five minutes if boiling only a minute is enough to make it safe? (H. D. L.)

Answer—All right. Don't shoot. I'll come quietly. I suppose I had one-half of my mind on the bowling green and the other half on germ-killing when I wrote that "Scalding," or bringing the milk up to boiling point even for just a few seconds, would make the milk perfectly safe for any infant, child or adult, in my judgment. Likewise I believe any milk that is pasteurized is perfectly safe for any one.

HER FIRST AT FORTY

I am 40, have never been really strong but . . . my husband is anxious to have a child, family doctor said it would be the finest thing that could happen, but I fear that at my age. (Mrs. A. R. M.)

Answer—Records of childbirth in a large number of cases show that the healthy woman who bears her first child at 40 may expect a normal delivery. Better read the chapter "Her First at Forty" in the booklet "Preparing for Maternity," mailed on written request if you inclose 10 cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope. Women whose education has been so sadly neglected may learn something to their advantage by reading Dr. Grantly Dick Read's "Childbirth Without Fear," published by Harpers, '44. A woman who can still roll a half-dozen somersaults and come up on her feet smiling and unruffled, do a running jump over a barrel or run around the block at her own pace is young enough to have a baby. Too many women whose education has been sadly neglected are too old at 30 to bear a child without kicking up all possible complications. It is physiological, not chronological age, that matters.

OVER 17 YEARS EXPERIENCE SERVING the PEOPLE of the 5th DISTRICT IN THE HALLS OF CONGRESS

ELIZABETH WOODWARD SAYS:

Men Came Between You And Your Best Friend

Peggy and you have been pals since you both wore pigtails. She keeps a toothbrush at your house for unexpected overnights. And her mother sets an extra place at dinner, just in case you stay. Peggy and you dress alike . . . use each other's library cards . . . and when the principal wants Peggy, he looks for you.

Damon and Pythias had nothing on you two . . . that is, till three weeks ago. Because it's all different now. Peggy's awfully sorry she can't bike with you . . . she's going biking with Charlie. She can't stop in at your house . . . she's going skating with Jack. If you happen to catch her walking to school, she's filled with what-he-said and where-we're-going. And you've nothing to say. Peggy has men in her life now. And there isn't room for you any more.

Elizabeth Woodward

YOU RESENT IT

After all you've been through together too. Your feelings are hurt. You thought you were friends. The evenings are long and empty. You snuffle tears into your pillow . . . you're lonely . . . you miss Peggy so. But you won't let her know. No sirree. If she likes the boys better than she does you . . . okay. She can have 'em. And you won't let her see that you care.

So you freeze over when Peggy comes in sight. You're bored when she chatters about Dick. You bite her off with an "Oh, I don't think he's so hot." You're cool . . . distant . . . and unfriendly. Peggy will wonder and worry for awhile . . . but she has so many other things on her mind now. She'll skip you and your frostbite.

GET AROUND THEM

You wouldn't want Peggy to turn down dates to make time for you. Or snaful her own fun with "If you'll get a man for my girl friend." But there are times when you . . . and only you will do. Things girls do together. Then you be ready and on the spot. Listen to her raving over a new man . . . and then bend the conversation to clothes . . . or the props for the play . . . or did she get that last chemistry experiment. If you pooh-pooh her patter, she'll think you're jealous. And secretly you are.

But it won't be long before you're dating too. Peggy just beat you to it. So till dates happen, fill up your time getting to know Janie Jones better. Now's your chance to learn bridge . . . Peggy never could stand card games. Join another club at school . . . spread yourself around. You'll find yourself too busy to worry over whether Peggy is too busy to see you. And you'll find your busy-ness soon turning into dates.

Liver Richest Source of Food Iron, Vitamin A

By SALLY SAVER

How long since you served liver? The nutrition-minded meal planner serves it at least once a week. But the holidays with all the hurry and bustle and excitement have made us forget or neglect temporarily some of our best habits. January, the month of colds, is an excellent time to re-establish the good practice of serving liver regularly for it is one of the richest sources of food iron and vitamin A, the latter the body's natural protector against respiratory diseases.

Braised liver with onions is always popular with those who like liver, but some extra dressing up is needed to make this nutritious food palatable to many. Clip and try these recipes for cooking liver:

POTROAST OF LIVER

Wash 3-4 pound of beek, pork or lamb liver in cold water. Drain well and sprinkle with 2 tablespoons flour mixed with 1-2 teaspoon salt and a little pepper. Tie liver in a compact, chunky piece and brown it in a little hot fat. Mix 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, and 2 tablespoons chopped parsley. Pour this over the browned liver, cover pan closely, reduce heat to simmering and cook about 40 minutes. Dice 2 carrots, 1 white turnip and separate a small head of cauliflower into sections. Lay vegetables on top of liver, sprinkle them lightly with salt and pepper, cover pan again and cook until vegetables are tender, about 30 minutes. Lift liver carefully to a hot platter, remove the string, and place the vegetables around the meat. Thicken gravy with 2 teaspoons flour mixed with a little cold water, and pour over the meat. Serve with mashed potatoes or buttered noodles, or rice, a crisp fruit salad, and cornbread squares.

PLANKED LIVER

Dip thick slices of calf liver in melted butter or margarine and broil under moderate heat until brown on both sides. Arrange on a hot, buttered plank. Pile well-seasoned mashed potatoes around. Over the liver arrange drained mushrooms, and over the mushrooms lay several small strips of bacon. Place under the broiler for a few minutes to cook bacon and brown tips of the potatoes. Serve immediately.

LIVER PATTIES

2 cups cracker crumbs
1-4 cup minced onion
1-4 teaspoon pepper
4 tablespoons bacon drippings
1-8 teaspoon marjoram
1 teaspoon salt

Wipe liver with damp cloth and parboil about 10 minutes. Drain. Put through food chopper. Mix thoroughly with remaining ingredients, adding enough liquor in which liver was cooked to moisten. Shape into patties, wrap with strips of bacon, if desired, and brown on both sides in bacon fat.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

WHAT TO EXPECT TODAY

Sun in Capricorn.

General Tendencies—After a week of oppositions, there are at last some stellar indications of peace and good-will—and about time, too! You are still apt to meet people who insist upon wearing chips on their shoulders, but the contacts grow less important to you. By tonight, you ought to be able to listen to discussions or entertainment and thoroughly enjoy yourself. A little travel may be necessary. The sensitive health of the past few days seems to have disappeared and you need not fear a return.

If Today Is Your Birthday.

The entire year seems active, but with sudden turns found from welcome to unwelcome conditions. Watch March and next July and August for the most changeful elements in your immediate surroundings. I doubt if your associates will be as reliable as you think them during these two or three months. Keep your affairs to yourself, therefore. As for marriage, this seems a little doubtful unless you are entirely willing to set up housekeeping on a shoestring, even then look for knots to be tied in it.

Today's Watchword — Just a stanza to slip in your pocket—"When the black-lettered list to the gods was presented, (the list of what fate for each mortal intends,) at the long string of ills a kind goddess relented, and slipped in three blessings—wife, children and friends." There are a good many people who do not realize what treasures they have tucked away in the corners of the house until someone else measures their true worth for them—maybe someone you would not believe to be noticing such things.

To give employment and to get employment . . . use a Want Ad in The Constitution.

REGENSTEIN'S PEACHTREE

SALLY FORTH Says:

Local Artist Chosen To Paint Alabama Governor's Picture

When the Medical Association of Alabama voted to hang a portrait of that state's governor, the Hon. Chauncey Sparks, in the new University hospital in Birmingham, the committee chosen for the purpose interviewed a group of the country's leading artists to determine who should paint the portrait. Hence it comes as a great honor and a distinct credit to the talent of Atlanta's Milner Benedict—a native son of Alabama—that he has been given the commission.

Milner first heard the good, exciting news, via long distance phone, from Dr. Howard Searcy, chairman of the portrait committee, but Dr. Seale Harris, of Birmingham, stopped in Atlanta last week to make all the arrangements. The present plan is that Milner will leave the last of this month or the first of next for Montgomery, where he will be a guest at the executive mansion. He estimates that it will take him from two to three weeks to finish the portrait, depending upon how full is the Governor's schedule, and how long he will be able to pose each day.

The handsome new hospital has just been opened in Birmingham as a unit of the medical extension of the University of Alabama. Milner's portrait of the chief executive will further cement a friendship between the Benedict and Sparks families that has continued for many years.

SHARES HONORS WITH BEN FRANKLIN

Though there were doubtless many who were not cognizant of the fact that yesterday was Benjamin Franklin's birthday anniversary, one Atlantan, Mrs. Henry Porter, not only remembered it, but entertained at a luncheon in his honor, which has been her custom every year since she founded, in 1927, the Franklin Club, composed of Mrs. Porter Langston, now of Pasadena, Cal.; Mrs. Stiles Hopkins, of Athens; Mesdames J. W. Hightower, J. L. Campbell and W. L. Percy. This year, however, Mrs. Porter gave her party also in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Bates Block, and this is the reason why:

For a long, long time Mrs. Porter has been one of Benjamin Franklin's staunchest admirers. In fact, so greatly interested is she in "the Father of Electricity," that she collects everything which bears on his life, including china, silver, books, photographs, etc. Many articles in her collection are museum pieces, and so generously has Mrs. Block added to Mrs. Porter's collection that she is called her "piece de resistance" and that is how Mrs. Block happened to share honors with Benjamin Franklin yesterday.

The luncheon table held, as its centerpiece, a handsome Delft blue coffee pot, bearing a painting of Franklin's tomb with LaFayette standing near by. The mats which Mrs. Porter used were attractive paper ones, decorated with familiar Franklin utterances. Sometimes at her luncheons cocktails are served on a large Towle tray, depicting Franklin's printing shop. Usually, a tiny figurine of Franklin, which came from England, is posed on top of the birthday cake and coffee is drunk from cups, painted with pictures of Franklin and his son, drawing lightning from the sky.

The two out-of-town members of the Franklin Club could not be present nor could Mrs. Hightower, but enjoying Mrs. Porter's hospitality were Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Percy, in addition to Mesdames Kenneth Campbell, Jesse Shelton, Newton Craig, W. A. Niall and Mrs. Block.

The above classes for amateurs only.

Class 14 (For Professionals)—Exhibit of camellias.

Exhibitors are asked to notify chairman of space desired. The entry chairman is Mrs. C. C. Case, 2625 Woodward Way, N. W., Atlanta. Entry blanks may be secured also at the garden center at Rich's and the garden shop at Davison-Paxon's.

Seminary, Fulton Tallulah Circles To Meet Monday

A joint meeting of the Washington Seminary and North Fulton High School Tallulah Falls circles will be held Monday at 4 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club. Formulation and discussion of plans for the Saturday matinee of "Fashionata of 1946" will highlight the occasion. Mrs. Charles T. Pottinger, general chairman for the Young Matrons' Circle, will present plans to the two groups. Tea will be served and the officers of each group will assist.

The Washington Seminary officers are: Miss Douglas Saffarrans, president; Miss Mary Garner, vice president; Miss Kate Lenhardt, secretary; Miss Beverly Dobbs, treasurer; the North Fulton officers are: Miss Betty Ann Boyet, president; Miss Dot Dunn, secretary; Miss Jean Hudson, treasurer, and Miss Joycelyn Johnson, publicity chairman.

Whitaker-Kelly Wedding Is Told

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Whitaker, of Bolton, announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Miss Betty Ann Whitaker, to William Joseph Kelly, of Atlanta.

The bride is the elder daughter of Mr. Whitaker and the former Miss Bertha Hudson. Her sister and brothers are Miss Sarah Whitaker, Bill Whitaker and Colie B. Whitaker Jr. Her paternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Whitaker of Atlanta. Her maternal grandparents are Mrs. E. A. Hudson and the late Mr. Hudson, of Bolton.

Mrs. Kelly is a graduate of the Napsonian school where she served as vice president of the Pi Pi sorority, president of the senior class, vice president of the student body and assistant editor of the school paper. She attended Agnes Scott College.

Mr. Kelly is the son of Samuel Walter Kelly and the former Miss Gertrude Grant. His only brother is Lt. Walter Kelly, now stationed in Japan. His paternal grandparents are late Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kelly, of Seneca, S. C. His maternal grandparents are the late Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Grant of Seneca.

MISS JO ANN BENNETT

Miss Bennett was recently installed as worthy advisor of Atlanta Assembly No. 5, Order of Rainbow for Girls. The installation, which was public, was held at Greenfield Lodge Hall, F. & A. M., Little Five Points.

Miss Danzel Weds Mr. Hogan At Christ The King Cathedral

The Cathedral of Christ the King was the scene yesterday of the wedding of Miss Alice Elizabeth Danzel and Julian Wade Hogan. The attractive brunette bride wore a gown of ivory satin, featuring sweetheart neckline, embroidered in seed pearls, long torso-bodice and a court train. Her bridal veil of illusion, showered with tiny orange blossoms, was attached to a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms.

Miss Dorothy Suzanne Cremin, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Her gown of aqua taffeta was designed with tight-fitting bodice, trimmed with matching net ruffles and featuring a pointed yoke with a built-up net neckline. The bouffant skirt of aqua net was posed over taffeta and was accented by two vertical rows of double net ruffles. She wore a halo bandeau of matching net, aqua elbow-length gloves and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Elizabeth Glenn, was similarly attired.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Hermann Anthony Danzel. Donald Wallace was best man, and John Cutliffe Jr. was groomsman. Ushers included George Edward Boulineau and Alfred Ernest Hogan, uncle of the groom.

The bride was given in marpale green suit with brown accessories and a brown straw hat trimmed with a small feather bird. Her flowers were purple orchids.

After a wedding trip through north Georgia and Tennessee, the couple will reside in Atlanta.

Out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were the bride's aunt, Mrs. James Nathan Stedman, of Charleston, S. C.; James Nathan Stedman Jr., John Allison Stedman, also of Charleston, and Mrs. William Henry Ahrens, of Summerville, S. C.

Miss Matthews Fetes Miss Grant

Miss Valeria Matthews will entertain this evening at a buffet supper at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Matthews, on Dellwood drive, honoring Miss Jane Grant, who, with her parents, Lt. and Mrs. William Grant, have returned to Atlanta from New York for residence on Woodward way, after an absence of three years.

Mrs. Grant and Mrs. Matthews will assist the young hostess in entertaining the guests, who will include Misses Nancy Carter, Barbara Wiggins, Ellen Ansley, Penny Barnett, Bessie Dennis, Jane Lee Taylor, Margaret Rankin, Ansley Howland, Gwen Lanier and Beverly Holiday.

Form Board For Control of Atom Bomb

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The United Nations Security Council—proposed as the custodian of the atom bomb factories and all the other arms plants in the world—was formally organized Thursday for its task of preserving the peace, using force if necessary.

The 11-nation council was constituted at 10:10 a. m. (EST) around a "good luck" horseshoe table in Church House, Westminster, and members declared at the historic opening session that upon the council primarily rested the world's hope of lasting peace.

Earlier to cheering general assembly delegates in Central Hall, Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk, of Czechoslovakia, one of Europe's great arms producing countries, called for United Nations global control of armament industries, including atomic bomb factories.

"War should be stopped by controlling all means to war," Masaryk said. To safeguard humanity, he added, international controls should be set up for "the latest devastating inventions."

BEVIN ANNOUNCEMENT

The second week in the life of the new world peace organization opened with an announcement by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin that his country was negotiating to place three of her five League of Nations mandates under the projected United Nations trusteeship system. They are Tanganyika, Cameroons and Togoland, all in Africa.

But Palestine, Bevin added, was being withheld pending results of a British-American inquiry into the Jewish-Arab issue. Trans-Jordan was excluded because it eventually will be made independent, he said.

Belgian officials said they soon would announce similar intentions for their two mandates in the Belgian Congo, Ruanda and Urundi, formerly in German East Africa.

The council was "duly constituted" by J. N. O. Makin, chief Australian delegate and provisional council president.

Edward R. Stettinius Jr. represented the United States, Bevin attended for Great Britain, Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko for Russia, Ambassador V. K. Wellington Koo for China, and Minister of State V. Auriol for France.

Stettinius, replying to a speech by Makin, said that whether the council "succeeds or not depends upon the manner in which the members of the security council discharge the special obligations they have assumed. This is the obligation to agree so that the council may be able to act, and act effectively."

Policemen's Vote On Service Form Will Be Secret

A secret ballot to determine the attitude of city policemen on a proposal to place the department under civil service has been ordered by city council's police committee.

The action was taken last night when Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, committee member and author of the move to place the 380 men on the roster under the jurisdiction of the personnel board, insisted that a secret ballot supplement a "show of hands vote" in which Police Chief Hornsby said the men voted 100 per cent against the proposal.

Gilliam's proposal was approved by other committeemen, and the ballot was ordered when Gilliam insisted that a show of hands "is not the kind of ballot I want."

Although there are approximately 425 employes in the police department, only 380 would be affected by the Gilliam proposal.

Hornsby was ordered to destroy a quantity of confiscated firearms. Jimmy Winn, Mayor Hartsfield's driver for seven years, was elected to fill a newly created lieutenant's position, and Supernumeraries L. L. Lackland, V. L. Reynolds and R. W. Boyd were elected to fill patrolmen's vacancies.

Aussies Hedge on Bretton Woods

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 17. (AP)—The Australian cabinet debated indecisively for 11 hours Friday about the Bretton Woods monetary agreement. Treasury sources said a decision on ratification probably would not be made until congress votes on the proposed U. S. loan to Great Britain.

Some ministers were reported to have expressed doubt of United States success in combatting unemployment and said they preferred to wait for implementation of full employment policies in all the United Nations before approving a binding financial arrangement.

Council Halts Further Trolley Substitution

Further substitution of trackless trolleys and buses for street cars in Atlanta must await an acceptable contract agreement between the city and the Georgia Power Company over company participation in roadway maintenance due to street damage, it has been decided by city council's public works committee.

Committee members yesterday deferred action on a company petition to substitute trackless trolleys for street railway lines operating on the Whitehall-Beecher and McDaniel street lines and asked a special subcommittee to obtain a maintenance contract.

Mayor Hartsfield, Alderman Ed A. Gilliam, committee chairman, and Construction Chief Clarke Donaldson comprise the subcommittee and were unsuccessful last year in obtaining what they considered a fair agreement through which the company would reimburse the city for damage done streets by operation of the large buses and trolleys.

The trio expects to reopen negotiations, and Gilliam was emphatic in asserting he will oppose further conversion until the matter is adjusted.

Company executives agreed to pay the city $100,000 in cash and approximately $25,000 a year until 1976 when the matter was up for discussion the latter part of last year, but the proposal was rejected because administration leaders said they could not estimate the damages and pointed out that under the proposal, the company would be relieved of all liability at the expiration of the contract.

Committeemen asked Fulton county to grade a 1,500 foot stretch on the west side of Boulevard extending from Atlanta avenue to Berne street so that the city and power company can widen the street about six feet, eliminating an existing off-set. The company and the city will divide the remainder of the cost, under the plan.

Proposal to change the name of Adams street from Boulevard to Parkway drive to Barker place in honor of the late W. D. Barker, veteran superintendent of Georgia Baptist hospital was referred to the city planning commission. Members of the fifth and sixth ward delegations proposed the change for the street which runs by the hospital in which Barker labored so long.

STATE POLIO DRIVE SHOWN ON SCREEN

Atlanta, Georgia and Gov. Arnall come in for national publicity in the current Paramount news reel which is being shown at the Fox, along with theaters throughout the nation with scenes depicting the opening of the National Infantile Paralysis Fund drive which took place at the East Lake Country Club several days ago.

Bobby Jones, the nation's No. 1 golfer, is seen in the news reel shots, teeing off at East Lake as a symbol of the "opening of the drive." Following this, Basil O'Connor, chairman of the drive, and Gov. Arnall make brief talks. Shots of the late President Roosevelt at Warm Springs and a commentary lauding the Buckhead Lions Club is incorporated in the widely-circulated film news.

The film runs a full three minutes and pays a fine tribute to Warm Springs and Georgia's efforts in behalf of the annual polio drive.

Peanut Still Shy Of Civil Demand

"The peanut, 'the Cinderalla of foods,' has changed the economy of many southern agricultural areas, and has supplanted cotton as the leading crop in Georgia, but there are still not enough of them to meet civilian demands," declared Roy E. Parrish, executive vice president of the Georgia Peanut Company, of Moultrie, Ga.

"Georgia led the nation with more than a million acres of peanuts harvested in 1945," said Parrish, who spoke yesterday at a meeting of the Railway Development Association at the Henry Grady hotel.

"I believe that with a reasonable break, we can maintain present prices to farmers, and still sell all the peanuts they grow," Parrish said.

"Notwithstanding the fact that the armed forces have not bought a single pound from the 1945 crop, we have a greater shortage of peanuts for the civilian trade than we have ever had," he said.

Ike Bans GI Demonstrations; Court-Martial For Offenders

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(UP)—Gen. Eisenhower, Army chief of staff, disclosed Thursday that he has banned all further GI mass demobilization demonstrations.

His order automatically carries the threat of court-martial against any offender. Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, so advised officers under his mid-Pacific command at Honolulu.

Eisenhower, who revealed the ban in testimony before a senate committee on demobilization, emphasized that individual complaints are not forbidden.

"But the time for mass demonstration is past," he said. "With publication of the Army's demobilization policy, demonstrations could serve no useful purpose."

Eisenhower read a letter from Gen. MacArthur in which the supreme Allied commander in Japan warned against speeding demobilization beyond present plans.

MacArthur said that about 660,000 men would be in the Pacific Jan. 20, and that this figure could be cut to 375,000 by July 1, including 200,000 Army troops for the occupation of Japan and Korea. He said the latter figures represent "minimum requirements" for the occupation period.

But he warned that, without adequate replacements, any further demobilization speed-up "will materially retard the roll-up of rear bases as well as the processing, storing and disposal of surplus property, and will weaken to a danger degree our control over Korea and Japan throughout the economically and politically critical spring months."

Sgt. Upton Dead, Wife Notified

S. Sgt. Robert Lee Upton, 29, of the Army Air Corps, has been presumed dead, according to a message from the War Department received by his wife, the former Miss Sarah Wright, of 491 East Pace's Ferry road, N. E. He had been listed as missing in action since Nov. 27, 1942.

Robert L. Upton

Sgt. Upton was a radio operator and gunner aboard a B-25 which failed to return from a combat mission over Lae, New Guinea.

Volunteering for active duty in March, 1941, Sgt. Upton trained at Jackson, Miss., and the Harlingen, Texas, gunnery school. He was based at Patterson Field, Dayton, Ohio, prior to going overseas in July, 1942. A native of Miami, Fla., and graduate of a Miami high school, he was connected with McKesson & Robbins Drug Company in that city prior to entering the service.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mabel Upton, of Louisville, Ky.; a brother, J. L. Upton, of Louisville, and a sister, Mrs. William Burwinkle, of Austin, Texas.

Memorial services will be held at 5 p. m. Sunday at the First Methodist church of Atlanta.

Six Are Injured In Bankhead Crash

Ice on the Bankhead highway bridge across the Chattahoochee sent two automobiles into a collision, injuring six persons, Lt. Woodrow Wilson, of the Fulton county police, reported.

The collision took place about 8 a. m. yesterday. Listed as injured were Jodie Todd, of Lithia Springs; Mrs. Grady Harcrow, of Austell; Robert Pitts, of Lithia Springs; Robert Johnson and Mrs. Clara Mae Johnson, his mother, also of Lithia Springs, and J. M. Wade, of Gainesville.

Police said Wade was driving in his car alone toward Carrollton when it was in collision with that driven by Pitts, who had four passengers with him.

Todd was taken to Grady hospital for skull injuries.

Cotton Shipments Seen for Japan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Hope of beginning shipment of raw cotton to Japan within a month was expressed in State Department quarters Thursday as part of a broad program to assist peoples of former enemy countries to feed and clothe themselves.

The plan constitutes an extension to Japan of a policy laid down Dec. 10 by the State Department, in which this government expressed its intention to give Germany a chance to get its peaceful domestic industries back on their feet.

Mt. Zion Memorial Services For S.-Sgt. Raymond Butler

Memorial services in honor of S/Sgt. Raymond Butler, who was killed while serving with the United States Air Forces in Europe, will be held at the Mt. Zion Methodist church at 3 p. m. Sunday. The services will be conducted by the Rev. N. O. L. Powell and the Rev. H. A. Walker. Special music for the service will be provided by the Mt. Zion choir.

Miss Mattie Perry, former missionary, Bible teacher and organizer of the Elhanan Bible School, will be visiting teacher of the John Wesley Bible Class of Wesley Memorial Methodist church at 9:30 a. m. Sunday. Her topic will be "God's Plan for the Ages."

The quarterly supper of the Men's Brotherhood of the Baptist Tabernacle will be held Tuesday at 6:45 p. m. and will feature an address by Dr. Josiah Crudup, president of Brenau College, Gainesville.

The Men of Peachtree will hear an address by Aldis Webb, of Kimberlin Heights, Tenn., when they gather for their regular meating at the Peachtree Christian church at 6:30 p. m. today. The topic of Webb's talk will be "The Next Step in Human Progress."

John Milton Kelley, director of church music for the board of Christian education of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., will conduct an institute of music at the Central Presbyterian church beginning Jan. 24 and continuing through Jan. 27. Classes will be at 7 p. m. each day, dealing with choral techniques, vocal methods, conducting and repertoire suggestions. The school will rehearse as a choir each night and will be attended by prominent clergymen and musicians from Atlanta and vicinity.

Tiller Will Preside At Stewards' Meeting

J. Sid Tiller, recently chosen president of the Atlanta Methodist Stewards' Association, will preside for his first time at the meeting of the association Tuesday night at the St. Paul Methodist church, Sydney and Grant streets. At least 400 clerical and lay representatives of the 75 pastoral charges in the two Atlanta districts are expected to attend.

Features of the meeting will be special musical numbers rendered by the St. Paul choir and quartet. Supper will be served at 6 p. m., followed by the business session at 7:30 p. m.

Georgia Baptists Debt-Free

The Georgia Baptist Convention is now completely free of debt, reported Dr. James W. Merritt, executive secretary of the convention, who added that a total of $2,265,245 was given the convention in the form of voluntary contributions by churches last year.

Benefited by donations included in the 1945 total are the Georgia Baptist hospital here, the Georgia Baptist Children's Home at Hapeville, and the five Baptist educational institutions: Mercer University, at Macon; Bessie Tift College, at Forsyth; Shorter College, at Rome; Brewton-Parker Institute, at Vidalia, and Norman Junior College, at Moultrie.

Projects of the convention during the last three years include the Baptist building, valued at $225,000, at 291 Peachtree, N. E., which the convention completely financed; an addition of $1,000,000 to Mercer University's endowment, and $250,000 worth of buildings and equipment.

The Baptist Children's Home at Hapeville now has 50 buildings, and has added a farm and other land in the vicinity. The property is valued at more than $1,100,000. Funds have been provided for the construction of several brick cottages and a new chapel and infirmary, Dr. Merritt said.

Thirty new field workers for the convention have been added.

Some $750,000 toward the $1,500,000 expansion program planned by the Georgia Baptist hospital is being held by the convention, said Dr. Merritt. Some of this amount will be used to construct a professional building near the hospital. The only thing holding this program up is shortage of materials.

Sleuths' Foray Against Crime Ends With Bump

Two detectives of the Atlanta police department had a busy day yesterday confiscating automobiles, arresting lottery suspects, and finally having their prowl car rammed from behind by another automobile.

The officers, W. G. Densmore and O. W. Allen, stopped a 1941 Ford in the 500 block on Williams street, N. W., found a quantity of lottery paraphernalia and confiscated the car.

Later in the day they ordered a 1940 Ford to the curb in the 1300 block on West Peachtree. It was found to contain $250 worth of lottery tickets—presumably the day's take—and an adding machine. The two occupants of the car, T. L. Whitehead, of a Cameron street address, and Carl Goss, Negro, of East avenue, were taken into custody, and have been charged with disorderly conduct and suspicion of conducting a lottery, the detectives said.

County Detectives Mike Johnson and Ellis Barrett Jr. joined Allen and Densmore in the arrest of Ira Bailey, Negro, of 587 Williams street, S. W., on a similar charge.

These arrests, said police, indicate a revival of lottery operations, dormant for months owing to an intense drive by law enforcement agencies last year.

After the arrest of the two men on West Peachtree while Detectives Allen and Densmore were waiting for a traffic light to change, another car rammed into the rear of their car. Occupants of both cars suffered minor injuries, but no charges were pressed against the driver of the second automobile.

Inman Bible Class

Judge Jesse M. Wood, of the criminal court of Fulton county, will speak at the Inman Park Baptist church 9:30 a. m. Sunday. He will also be guest teacher of the Paul S. Etheridge Bible Class.

RARE LIKENESS

News Sought Of Painter Of Gen. Lee

By DR. THOMAS M. ELLIOTT.

The United States War Department will welcome any details concerning this picture of Gen. Robert E. Lee painted by some unknown artist in 1861 at the time of Lee's marriage and while he was a lieutenant in the United States Army. Among more than 50 portraits of Gen. Lee in my possession the one shown here is considered the most rare, and about which least is known.

Ten southern states tomorrow will observe as a public holiday the anniversary of Gen. Lee's birthday. Throughout all America, thought will be given to the study of the life and character of the southern chieftain whose place in history grows larger and more firmly fixed with the passing decades.

Just here it might not be considered amiss to bear in mind the fearful problem of soldiers AWOL that confronted Gen. Lee. At the time of the Appomattox surrender there were 358,692 men in the Confederate Army. Of that total number 198,494 officers and men were AWOL, leaving only 160,198 present. Gen. Lee wrote President Jeff Davis that his retirement from Maryland was caused by desertions and stragglers.

At the battle of Antietam one-half to one-third of the soldiers were straggling. In February, 1865, J. S. Preston, superintendent of conscription, said 100,000 Confederate soldiers were AWOL. General Lee reported that, from Feb. 26 to March 8, 1865, some 779 men deserted from the Army of Northern Virginia. Again Gen. Lee reported that, from March 15 to March 25, 1865, some 1,094 deserted from that same Army.

AWOL is now regarded throughout the nation as the mighty factor that led Gen. Robert E. Lee to the Appomattox Courthquse surrender April 9, 1865.

FHA Offers Flood Loan Insurance

Facilities of the Federal Housing Administration have been offered to aid in rehabilitation of Georgia homes and other structures damaged or destroyed by recent storms and floods.

R. E. Matheson, FHA state director, yesterday advised property owners in flood sections that the agency stands ready to insure repair loans made to individuals by qualified lending institutions up to $2,500, which may be repaid in monthly installments over a period up to three years.

Loans to finance construction of new non-residential buildings may be made up to $3,000, repayable in three years, for commercial and industrial purposes, and up to seven years for farm buildings.

Matheson stated that in cases where homes were demolished, a loan to build a new home may be insured if FHA requirements are met.

Camellia Show Dates Are Set In Thomasville

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Jan. 17.—The annual Camellia show, sponsored by the Thomasville Garden Club, will be held January 29-30, according to announcement made here by Mrs. W. B. Cochran Jr., president.

This schedule will coincide with a meeting of the State Garden Club's executive board, of which Mrs. Robert Neely, of Waynesboro, is president.

The state board will be entertained by Mrs. Fred Scott and Mrs. Ed Komarek at the home of Mrs. Scott, both being on the board.

R. W. Brewer, 77, 40-Year Resident, Dies at Home

Randy W. Brewer, 77, father of Ernest Brewer, Mayor Hartsfield's executive secretary, and resident of Atlanta for 40 years, died yesterday at his residence, 1480 Beattie avenue, S. W., following a protracted illness.

For years Mr. Brewer was employed by the Georgia Power Company and more recently with the state highway department. He was born Feb. 22, 1868, in Cobb county. He was a pioneer resident of the Capitol View section and a member of the Capitol View Presbyterian church and of the Boethian Bible class of the same institution.

In addition to his son, Ernest he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Leila Brannon Brewer; three sons, Brannon and Ralph Brewer, of Atlanta, and Gober Brewer, of Blakely; a sister, Mrs. Robert T. Peavy, of Atlanta; two brothers, J. R. Brewer, of Smyrna, and Allen Brewer, of Austell, and five grandchildren, Mrs. Frank Bennett, Misses Chippie and Mary Katherine Brewer, Ernest J. Brewer Jr., and Jimmy Brewer.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. today from the Capitol View Presbyterian church with the Rev. Chester F. Monk, church pastor, assisted by the Rev. W. J. DeBardeleben, pastor of the New Hope Methodist church, officiating. Interment will be at the Austell cemetery. The body will lie in state at the church from 1:30 p. m. today until time for the funeral service. Howard L. Carmichael Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

SAN FRANCISCO-LOS ANGELES RECORD SMASHED BY JET IN 42:33 MINUTES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 17.—(UP)—A jet-propelled P-80 fighter plane, flying at an average speed of 509.04 miles an hour, Thursday established a new record for the 361 airline miles here from San Francisco by covering the distance in 42 minutes and 33 seconds.

Averaging more than eight miles a minute despite an 18-mile-an-hour headwind, the single-seater plane, piloted by Lt. Claude L. Wolford, of Los Angeles, bettered by about one-third the previous record of 62 minutes set last week by a four-engined Lockheed Constellation of Transcontinental & Western Airlines.

The plane took off from Mills Field, San Francisco, at 4:07 p. m. (EST) and landed at municipal airport here at 4:49:33 p. m.

Army authorities said the plane, also known as a Lockheed Shooting Star, was a standard model.

R. W. Davis, 73, Dies; All Saints Services Today

Robert Willoughby Davis, 73, widely known in financial circles, died late Wednesday night in a local hospital following a brief illness. His home was at 771 West Peachtree, N. E.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. today at All Saints' Episcopal church, with the Rev. Matthew W. Warren, rector, officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery.

Vice president and treasurer of the Atlanta Federal Savings & Loan Association, Mr. Davis was also a member of the vestry and treasurer of All Saints church. He came to Atlanta in 1899 from Petersburg, Va., where he was born.

In addition to his wife, survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Alice Albert Jr., of Fort Benning, Ga.; a granddaughter, Emily Carson Albert; a brother, the Rev. Franklyn Davis, of Danville, Ky., and a sister, Mrs. Lena B. Dunlop, of Petersburg.

Pallbearers will be Dr. Kells Boland, W. C. Satterthwait, John Woolfolk, W. O. Duval, C. A. Adair and W. L. Blackett. The officers and directors of the Atlanta Federal Savings & Loan Association and the members of the vestry at All Saints will serve as honorary escort.

Mrs. A. L. Cuesta, Ex-Atlantan, Dies

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Mrs. A. L. Cuesta, widow of a pioneer Tampa cigar manufacturer, died Thursday at her home after an illness of about three months.

Born in Camden, N. J., the former Miss Marie Binder moved to Atlanta with her family in 1883. She married A. L. Cuesta in 1889 in the Georgian capital, where he operated a cigar factory before coming to Tampa.

She is survived by two sons, A. L. Jr., president of Cuesta-Rey & Co., and K. B., treasurer of the company, both of Tampa, and a daughter, Mrs. Arnold S. Kirkeby, of Chicago and Los Angeles.

Long Illness Fatal To William D. Adams

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the chapel of J. Austin Dillon Co., with the Rev. Clarence Sissons officiating. Burial will be in West View.

Mr. Adams, a native Atlantan, was before his retirement a conductor for the N., C. & St. L. Railway. He was a member of the Order of Railway Conductors and of a Baptist church in Chattanooga, Tennessee.

He is survived by a son, J. D. Adams; two daughters, Mrs. J. L. Wilson and Mrs. Flora Black, all of Atlanta; a sister, Mrs. John Prichard, of Griffin, Ga., 10 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Report Bishop of Pinsk Removed From Diocese

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 17.—(AP) Msgr. Pucci's news service said Thursday the Vatican had received information that Msgr. Casimir Bukraba, bishop of Pinsk, had been ousted from his diocese.

Pinsk, formerly in Poland, now is part of Soviet White Russia. Bukraba was the last of 17 bishops in eastern Polish belt occupied by the Russians, the news service said, as the other 16 already had been removed.

McQUADE WANTS HIS CAP, BADGE

BOSTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The full bench of the Massachusetts supreme court is going to decide whether the Boston and Albany Railroad should supply Brakeman Joseph L. McQuade a uniform cap—free.

McQuade says his employer should pay for his uniform cap and has dug up an 1874 statute to back up his claim.

His attorney, Thomas H. O'Brien, presented McQuade's petition to Supreme Court Justice John V. Spalding Thursday, and by agreement between counsel, a statement of facts will be presented to the full bench.

O'Brien said that under the old law, railroads were required to furnish all employes engaged in transportation with a cap and a badge, and that if they did not do so, they could be fined $100 a week plus $25 more every time an employe failed to wear his cap while performing his duties.

"Lab" Creates New Outlet for Farmers

A happy outlook for southern industry and agriculture in the utilization of southern farm products for industrial outlets—particularly cotton, sweet potatoes and peanuts—is brought to Atlanta by Dr. E. A. Gastrock, director of the Southern Regional Research Laboratory, at New Orleans.

Dr. Gastrock, who spoke yesterday at the annual meeting of the Railway Development Association of the southeast at the Henry Grady hotel, described the development of a new cotton tire cord that has proved in tests to be 132 per cent better than the standard cotton cord.

Other developments in cotton products during the war years by the Southern Regional Research Laboratory, Dr. Gastrock reported, are a process called "partial acetylation," which preserves cotton used for sandbags, camouflage fabrics, tents and other military textiles against damage by weather or micro-organisms; a flame-proofing treatment which will apply to such peacetime articles as firemen's clothing, draperies and circus tents; improved, semi-elastic cotton bandage fabric; an unlined cotton fire hose to replace similar linen hose, and an acid resistant cotton thread.

All these projects will have peacetime applications.

"A basic process for the manufacturing of sweet potato starch, progressively improved by continued research of the Southern Regional Research laboratory, has been translated to a large-volume, highly mechanized product with the construction of a $7,000,000 sweet potato starch plant by the United States Sugar Corporation at Clewiston, Fla. Under a co-operative agreement, the laboratory gives technical advice and assistance to the Clewiston enterprise."

Methods have been developed for making "tailor-made" oils from cotton seed and peanut oils by separating them into fractions which have greater utility than the original oils. Dr. Gastrock gave as examples, an olive oil substitute from peanut oil for industrial uses, such as lubricant in spinning worsted yarns and an enrobing fat, similar to cocoa butter, suitable for candy manufacture, pharmaceutical uses and the like.

Also, from peanut meal, fibers and adhesives have been developed.

"The Southern Regional Research Laboratory (one of four similar laboratories set up by congress in 1932) endeavors to serve both southern agriculture and industry by the development of new and extended industrial outlets for southern farm products," Dr. Gastrock explained.

The cotton tire cord experiments are probably the most important because tire cord is the largest single use of cotton, consuming annually about 700,000 bales in recent prewar years, or almost as much cotton as is grown in one year in Georgia.

The laboratory, according to Dr. Gastrock, selected three specific varieties of cotton with known characteristics for its experiments. Light truck tires made of these selected varieties of cotton were tested on simiulated war front conditions on 2½-ton trucks. Tires of low-gauge cord of Wilds 13 cotton, proved 132 per cent better, tires of SXP cotton, 75 per cent better, and tires of Stoneville cotton, 20 per cent better than the standard cotton cord.

ADVANCED HEALTH RATING GOES TO SCHAFFNER CHICKS
SCHAFFNER Controlled Quality Chicks now officially grade U. S. PULLORUM PASSED. This advanced health rating means that the 38,000 breeders in our flocks have been blood-tested again and again until not even one pullorum carrier was found. Pullorum tolerance is ZERO. This makes Schaffner Chicks easy to raise. Our Foundation Breeding Farm stock is checked at Official Laying Tests. Commercial broiler orders also solicited. Schaffner Poultry Farm & Hatchery, Box C, 249 Peters St., S. W., Atlanta 3, Ga.

Quarantine Dogs In Two Sections To Stem Rabies

City health officials have invoked a quarantine law to stem the spread of rabies in Atlanta and already have clamped the quarantine on all animals within three blocks of two points where positive reactions have been discovered thus far this year.

Stafford W. Graydon, health engineer, announced yesterday that 72 blocks already have been placed under quarantine to avoid the possibility of spread of the disease, and said it will be the policy of the department to invoke the law in every instance until rabies is brought under control.

Pets within a three-block radius of 224 Ellis street, N. E., and 409 Nelson street, S. W., the addresses at which the infections have been discovered thus far this year, were ordered quarantined as the new method of control became effective.

The action was taken following a 23 per cent rise in the number of rabies cases in Atlanta last year over the previous 12 months. A total of 52 cases were recorded for 1945 as compared with only 40 cases in 1944.

Thus far this year two positive cases have been diagnosed, and the department hopes to limit them by quarantining all pets within three blocks of the point of discovery. Experts say a rabies infected animal seldom travels more than three blocks in any direction and that the quarantine method would find any other infected animals without risking a further spread by rovers.

The old August, 1943, ordinance has never been enforced although it has been on city books. It authorizes the city health officers to order all dogs and other animals within a three-block radius of a discovery kept in yards or tied up for a period of three weeks. In this way, any other animal which was infected by the original carrier would be detected without further spread of the disease.

"We know animal owners want to co-operate to avoid spread of rabies, one of the most dreaded of infections," Graydon said yesterday, "and we know we can count on them to give us every sympathetic consideration. Even if an owner did not wish to co-operate, he should, from a selfish standpoint, because his own pet or members of his own family, might become victims if animals are allowed to roam the streets where infection might be spread. We believe we can reduce infections markedly through the quarantine and urge pet owners to help us."

Bergens Plan Early Wedding in Church

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 17.—(AP)—It will be a church wedding this time for the Edgar Bergens.

The ventriloquist and the former model and singer, Frances Westerman, obtained a license in El Centro Wednesday and the bride's mother said they would wed again soon in a Methodist church here to which Miss Westerman belongs.

"When they were married in Sonora, Mexico, last June 23," said Mrs. Lily Boyd, "they told me when the secret came out they'd be married again here. I don't know exactly when, but soon."
